MEASVRE,

For Measure.

Actus primus, Scena prima.

[Act 1, Scene 1] Enter Duke, Escalus, Lords.

Duke.
E. Scalbus.
Esc.
My Lord.
Duk.
Of Gouernment, the properties to vn
(fold, Would seeme in me t'affect speech & discourse, Since I am put to know, that your owne Science Exceedes (in that) the lists of all aduice My strength can giue you: Then no more remaines But that, to your sufficiency, as your worth is able,
And let them worke: The nature of our People,
Our Cities Institutions, and the Termes
For Common Iustice, y'are as pregnant in
As Art, and practise, hath inriched any
That we remember: There is our Commission,
From which, we would not haue you warpe; call hither,
I say, bid come before vs Angelo:
What figure of vs thinke you, he will beare.
For you must know, we haue with speciall soule
Elected him our absence to supply;
Lent him our terror, drest him with our loue,
And giuen his Deputation all the Organs
Of our owne powre: What thinke you of it?

Esc.
If any in Vienna be of worth
To vndergoe such ample grace, and honour,
It is Lord Angelo.

Enter Angelo.

Duk.
Looke where he comes.

Ang.
Alwayes obedient to your Graces will,
I come to know your pleasure.

Duke.

Angelo.
There is a kinde of Character in thy life,
That to th'obseruer, doth thy history
Fully vnfold: Thy selfe, and thy belonging
Are not thine owne so proper, as to waste
Thy selfe vpon thy vertues; they on thee:
Heauen doth with vs, as we, with Torches doe,
Not light them for themselues: For if our vertues
Did not goe forth of vs, 'twere all alike
As if we had them not: Spirits are not finely touch'd,
But to fine issues: nor nature neuer lends
The smallest scruple of her excellence,
But like a thrifty goddesse, she determines
Her selfe the glory of a creditour,
Both thanks, and vse; but I do bend my speech
To one that can my part in him adverture;
Hold therefore Angelo:
In our remoue, be thou at full, our selfe:
Mortallitie and Mercie in Vienna
Liue in thy tongue, and heart: Old Escalus
Though first in question, is thy secondary.
Take thy Commission.

Ang.
Now good my Lord
Let there be some more test, made of my mettle,
Before so noble, and so great a figure
Be stamp't vpon it.
Duk.
No more evasion:
We have with a leaven'd, and prepared choice
Proceeded to you; therefore take your honors:
Our haste from hence is of so quick condition,
That it prefers itself, and leaves unquestion'd
Matters of needful value: We shall write to you
As time, and our concernings shall importune,
How it goes with us, and do look to know
What doth befall you here. So fare you well:
To th' hopeful execution doe I leave you,
Of your Commissions.

Ang.
Yet give leave (my Lord,)
That we may bring you something on the way.

Duk.
My haste may not admit it,
Nor neede you (on mine honor) have to doe
With any scruple: your scope is as mine owne,
So to enforce, or qualify the Lawes
As to your soul seems good: Give me your hand,
I'll priuily away: I love the people,
But doe not like to stage me to their eyes:
Though it doe well, I doe not relish well
Their loud applause, and Aues vehement:
Nor doe I thinke the man of safe discretion
That do's affect it. Once more fare you well.

Ang.
The heaunens give safety to your purposes.

Esc.
Lead forth, and bring you backe in happiness.

Exit.

Duk.
I thank you, fare you well.

Esc.
I shall desire you, Sir, to give me leave
To have free speech with you; and it concerns me
To looke into the bottom of my place:
A powre I have, but of what strength and nature,
I am not yet instructed.

Ang.
'Tis so with me: Let vs with-draw together,
And we may soone our satisfaction have Touching that point.

Esc.
I'll wait vpon your honor.

Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.
[Act 1, Scene 2]
[Page 62]
Measure for Measure.

Enter Lucio, and two other Gentlemen.

Luc. If the Duke, with the other Dukes, come not to composition with the King of Hungary, why then all the Dukes fall upon the King.

1. Gent. Heauen grant vs its peace, but not the King of Hungaries.

Luc. Thou conclude'st like the Sanctimonious Pirat, that went to sea with the ten Commandements, but scrap'd one out of the Table.

2. Gent. Thou shalt not Steale?

Luc. I, that he raz'd.

1. Gent. Why? 'twas a commandement, to command the Captaine and all the rest from their functions: they put forth to steale: There's not a Souldier of vs all, that in the thanks-giving before meate, do rallish the petition well, that praiest for peace.

2. Gent. I neuer heard any Souldier dislike it.

Luc. I beleuee thee: for I thinke thou neuer was't where Grace was said.

2. Gent. No? a dozen times at least.

1. Gent. What? In meeter?

Luc. In any proportion. or in any language.

Luc. I, why not? Grace, is Grace, despight of all controuersie: as for example; Thou thy selfe art a wicked villain, despight of all Grace.

1. Gent. Well: there went but a paire of sheeres betweene vs.

Luc. I grant: as there may between the Lists, and the Veluet. Thou art the List.

1. Gent.
And thou the Veluet; thou art good veluet; thou'rt a three pild-peece I warrant thee: I had as lief be a Lyst of an English Kersey, as be pil'd, as thou art pil'd, for a French Veluet. Do I speake feelingly now?

L. I thinke thou do'st: and indeed with most pain full feeling of thy speech: I will, out of thine owne confession, learne to begin thy health; but, whilst I liue for get to drinke after thee.

1. G. I think I haue done my selfe wrong, haue I not?

2. G. Yes, that thou hast; whether thou art tainted, or free.

L. Behold, behold, where Madam Mitigation comes. I haue purchas'd as many diseases vnder her Roofe, As come to

2. G. To what, I pray?

L. Iudge

2. G. To three thousand Dollours a yeare.

1. G. I, and more.

L. A French crowne more.

1. G. Thou art alwayes figuring diseases in me; but thou art full of error, I am sound.

L. Nay, not (as one would say) healthy: but so sound, as things that are hollow; thy bones are hollow; Impiety has made a feast of thee.

1. G. How now, which of your hips has the most profound Ciatica?

Bawd. Well, well: there's one yonder arrested, and carried to prison, was worth fiue thousand of you all.

2. G. Who's that I pray'thee?

Bawd. Marry Sir, that's Claudio, Signior Claudio?

1. G. Claudio to prison? 'tis not so.
Nay, but I know 'tis so: I saw him arrested:
saw him carried away: and which is more, within these three daies his head to be chop'd off.

Luc.
But, after all this fooling, I would not haue it so:
Art thou sure of this?

Bawd.
I am too sure of it: and it is for getting Madam
Iulietta with childe.

Luc.
Beleeue me this may be: he promis'd to meete me two howres since, and he was euer precise in promise keeping.

2. Gent.
Besides you know, it drawes somthing neere to the speech we had to such a purpose.

1. Gent.
But most of all agreeing with the proclamation.

Luc.
Away: let's goe learne

Exit.

Bawd.
Thus, what with the war; what with the sweat, what with the gallowes, and what with pouerty, I am Custom-shrunke. How now? what's the newes with you.

Enter Clowne.

Clo.
Yonder man is carried to prison.

Baw.
Well: what has he done?

Clo.
A Woman.

Baw.
But what's his offence?

Clo.
Groping for Trowts, in a peculiar Riuere.

Baw.
What? is there a maid with child by him?

Clo.
No: but there's a woman with maid by him:
you haue not heard of the proclamation, haue you?

Baw.
What proclamation, man?

Clow.
All howses in the Suburbs of Vienna must bee pluck'd downe.

Bawd.
And what shall become of those in the Citie?
They shall stand for seed: they had gon down to, but that a wise Burger put in for them.

Bawd.
But shall all our houses of resort in the Sub urbs be puld done?

Clow.
To the ground, Mistris.

Bawd.
Why here's a change indeed in the Common wealth: what shall become of me?

Clow.
Come: feare not you; good Counsellors lacke no Clients: though you change your place, you neede not change your Trade: Ile bee your Tapster still; cou rage, there will bee pitty taken on you; you that haue wore your eyes almost out in the service, you will bee considered.

Bawd.
What's to doe here, Thomas Tapster? let's withdraw?

Clo.
Here comes Signior Claudio, led by the Prouost to prison: and there's Madam Iuliet.

Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

[Act 1, Scene 2, cont.]

Note: Conventionally this scene is not separate from the scene before.

Enter Prouost, Claudio, Iuliet, Officers, Lucio, & 2.Gent.

Cla.
Fellow, why do'st thou show me thus to th'world?
Beare me to prison, where I am committed.

Pro.
I do it not in euill disposition,
But from Lord Angelo by speciall charge.

Clau.
Thus can the demy-god (Authority)
Make vs pay done, for our offence, by weight
The words of heauen; on whom it will, it will,
On whom it will not (soe) yet still 'tis iust.

Luc.
Why how now Claudio? whence comes this res (traint.

Cla.
From too much liberty, (my Lucio) Liberty
As surfet is the father of much fast,
So every Scope by the immoderate vse
Turnes to restraint: Our Natures doe pursue
Like Measure for Measure.
Like Rats that rauyn downe their proper Bane,
A thirsty euill, and when we drinke, we die.
Luc.
If I could speake so wisely vnder an arrest, I would send for certaine of my Creditors: and yet, to say the truth, I had as lief haue the foppery of freedome, as the mortality of imprisonment: what's thy offence, Claudio?
Cla.
What (but to speake of) would offend againe.
Luc.
What, is't murder?
Cla.
No.
Luc.
Lecherie?
Cla.
Call it so.
Pro.
Away, Sir, you must goe.
Cla.
One word, good friend:
Lucio, a word with you.
Luc.
A hundred:
If they'll doe you any good: Is Lechery so look'd after?
Cla.
Thus stands it with me: vpon a true contract
I got possession of Iulietas bed,
You know the Lady, she is fast my wife,
Sawe that we doe the denunciation lacke
Of outward Order. This we came not to,
Onely for propogation of a Dowre
Remaining in the Coffer of her friends,
From whom we thought it meet to hide our Loue
Till Time had made them for vs. But it chances
The stealth of our most mutuall entertainment
With Character too grosse, is writ on Iuliet.
Luc.
With childe, perhaps?
Cla.
Unhappely, euen so.
And the new Deputie, now for the Duke,
Whether it be the fault and glimpse of newnes,
Or whether that the body publique, be
A horse whereon the Gouvernor doth ride,
Who newly in the Seate, that it may know
He can command; lets it strait feel the spur:
Whether the Tirranny be in his place,
Or in his Eminence that fills it vp
I stagger in: But this new Gouernor
Awakes me all the inrolled penalties
Which haue (like vn-scowr'd Armor) hung by th'wall
So long, that nineteen Zodiacks have gone round,
And none of them beene wore; and for a name
Now puts the drowsie and neglected Act
Freshly on me: 'tis surely for a name.

Luc.
I warrant it is: And thy head stands so tickle on thy shoulders, that a milkemaid, if she be in love, may sigh it off: Send after the Duke, and appeale to him.

Cla.
I haue done so, but hee's not to be found.
I pre'thee (Lucio) doe me this kinde seruice:
This day, my sister should the Cloyster enter,
And there receive her approbation.
Acquaint her with the danger of my state,
Implore her, in my voice, that she make friends
To the strict deputie: bid her selfe assay him,
I haue great hope in that: for in her youth
There is a prone and speechlesse dialect,
Such as moue men: beside, she hath prosperous Art
When she will play with reason, and discourse,
And well she can persuade.

Luc.
I pray shee may; aswell for the encouragement of the like, which else would stand under grievous im position: as for the enjoying of thy life, who I would be sorry should bee thus foolishly lost, at a game of ticke tacke: Ile to her.

Cla.
I thanke you good friend Lucio.

Luc.
Within two houres.

Cla.
Come Officer, away.
Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.
[Act 1, Scene 3]

Enter Duke and Frier Thomas.

Duk.
No: holy Father, throw away that thought,
Believe not that the dribling dart of love
Can pierce a compleat bosom: why, I desire thee
To give me secret harbour, hath a purpose
More grave, and wrinkled, then the aimes, and ends
Of burning youth.

Fri.
May your Grace speake of it?

Duk.
My holy Sir, none better knowes then you
How I haue euer lou'd the life remoued
And held in idle price, to haunt assemblies
Where youth, and cost, witsesse brauery keepes.
I haue deliuerd to Lord Angelo
(A man of stricture and firme abstinence)
My absolute power, and place here in Vienna
And he supposes me travailed to Poland,
(For so I haue strewd it in the common eare)
And so it is receiued: Now (pious Sir)
You will demand of me, why I do this.

Fri.
Gladly, my Lord.

Duk.
We haue strict Statutes, and most biting Laws,
(The needfull bits and curbes to headstrong weedes,)
Which for this foureteene yeares, we haue let slip,
Euen like an ore growne Lyon in a Cauie
That goes not out to prey: Now, as fond Fathers,
Hauing bound vp the threatning twigs of birch,
Onely to sticke it in their childrens sight,
For terror, not to vse: in time the rod
More mock'd, then fear'd: so our Decrees,
Dead to infliction, to themselues
And libertie, plucks Justice by the nose;
The Baby beates the Nurse, and quite athwart
Goes all decorum.

Fri.
It rested in your Grace
To vnloose this tyde- vp Justice, when you pleas'd:
And it in you more dreadfull would haue seem'd
Then in Lord Angelo.

Duk.
I doe feare: too dreadfull:
Sith 'twas my fault, to giue the people scope,
'Twould be my tirrany to strike and gall them,
For what I bid them doe: For, we bid this be done
When euill deedes haue their permisiusse passe,
And not the punishment: therefore indeede (my father)
I haue on Angelo impos'd the office,
Who may in th' ambush of my name, stri [...] home,
And yet, my nature neuer in the fight
To do in slander: And to behold his sway
I will, as 'twere a brother of your Order,
Visit both Prince, and People: Therefore I pre'thee
Supply me with the habit, and instruct me
How I may formally in person beare
Like a true Frier: Moe reasons for this action
At our more leysure, shall I render you;
Onely, this one: Lord Angelo is precise,
Stands at a guard with Enuie: scarce confesses
That his blood flowes: or that his appetite
Is more to bread then stone: hence shall we see
If power change purpose: what our Seemers be.
Exit.

Scena Quinta.
[Act 1, Scene 4]
[Page 64]
Measure for Measure.

Enter Isabell and Francisca a Nun.

Isa.
And haue you Nuns no farther priuiledges?

Nun.
Are not these large enough?

Isa.
Yes truely; I speake not as desiring more,
But rather wishing a more strict restraint
Upon the Sisterhood, the Votarists of Saint Clare.

Lucio within.

Luc.
Hoa? peace be in this place.

Isa.
Who's that which cals?

Nun.
It is a mans voice: gentle Isabella
Turne you the key, and know his businesse of him;
You may; I may not: you are yet vnsworne:
When you haue vowed, you must not speake with men,
But in the presence of the Prioresse;
Then if you speake, you must not show your face;
Or if you show your face, you must not speake.
He cals againe: I pray you ans were him.

Isa.
Peace and prosperitie: who is't that cals?

Luc.
Haile Virgin, (if you be) as those cheeke-Roses
Proclaime you are no lesse: can you so steed me,
As bring me to the sight of Isabella,
A Nouice of this place, and the faire Sister
To her vnhappie brother Claudio?

Isa.
Why her vnhappy Brother? Let me aske,
The rather for I now must make you know
I am that Isabella, and his Sister.

Luc.
Gentle & faire: your Brother kindly greets you;
Not to be weary with you; he's in prison.

Isa.
Woe me; for what?

Luc.
For that, which if my selfe might be his Iudge,
He should receiue his punishment, in thankes:
He hath got his friend with childe.
Isa.
Sir, make me not your storie.

Luc.
'Tis true; I would not, though 'tis my familiar sin,
With Maids to seeme the Lapwing, and to iest
Tongue, far from heart: play with all Virgins so:
I hold you as a thing en-skied, and sainted,
By your renouncement, an imortall spirit
And to be talk'd with in sincerity,
As with a Saint.

Isa.
You doe blaspheme the good, in mocking me.

Luc.
Doe not beleue it: fewnes, and truth; tis thus,
Your brother, and his louer haue embrac'd;
As those that feed, grow full: as blossoming Time
That from the seednes, the bare fallow brings
To teeming foyson: euen so her plenteous wombe
Expresseth his full Tilth, and husbandry.

Isa.
Some o [...]e with childe by him? my cosen Iuliet?

Luc.
Is she your cosen?

Isa.
Adoptedly, as schoole-maids change their names
By vaine, though apt affection.

Luc.
She it is.

Isa.
Oh, let him marry her.

Luc.
This is the point.
The Duke is very strangely gone from hence;
Bore many gentlemen (my selfe being one)
In hand, and hope of action: but we doe learne,
By those that know the very Nerues of State,
His giuing-out, were of an infinite distance
From his true meant designe: vpon his place,
(And with full line of his authority)
Gouernes Lord Angelo: A man, whose blood
Is very snow-broth: one, who neuer feeles
The wanton stings, and motions of the sence;
But doth rebate, and blunt his naturall edge
With profits of the minde: Studie, and fast
He (to giue feare to vse, and libertie,
Which haue, for long, run-by the hideous law,
As Myce, by Lyons) hath pickt out an act,
Vnder whose heauy sence, your brothers life
Fals into forfeit: he arrests him on it,
And followes close the rigor of the Statute
To make him an example: all hope is gone,
Vnlesse you haue the grace, by your faire praier
To soften Angelo: And that's my pith of businesse
'Twixt you, and your poore brother.

Isa.
Doth he so,
Seeke his life?

Luc.
Has censur'd him already,
And as I heare, the Prouost hath a warrant
For's execution.

Isa.
Alas: what poore
Abilitie's in me, to doe him good.

Luc.
Assay the powre you haue.

Isa.
My power? alas, I doubt.

Luc.
Our doubts are traitors
And makes vs loose the good we oft might win,
By fearing to attempt: Goe to Lord Angelo
And let him learne to know, when Maidens sue
Men giue like gods: but when they weep and kneele,
All their petitions, are as freely theirs
As they themselues would owe them.

Isa.
Ile see what I can doe.

Luc.
But speedily.

Isa.
I will about it strait;
No longer staying, but to giue the Mother
Notice of my affaire: I humbly thanke you:
Commend me to my brother: soone at night
Ile send him certaine word of my successe.

Luc.
I take my leaue of you.

Isa.
Good sir, adieu.

Exeunt.

Actus Secundus. Scœna Prima.

[Act 2, Scene 1]

Enter Angelo, Escalus, and servants, Justice.

Ang.
We must not make a scar-crow of the Law,
Setting it vp to feare the Birds of prey,
And let it keepe one shape, till custome make it
Their pearch, and not their terror.

Esc.
I, but yet
Let vs be keene, and rather cut a little
Then fall, and bruise to death: alas, this gentleman
Whom I would saue, had a most noble father,
Let but your hono
(Whom I beleue to be most strait in vertue)
That in the working of your owne affections,
Had time coheard with Place, or place with wishing,
Or that the resolute acting of our blood
Could have attaind th' effect of your owne purpose,
Whether you had not sometime in your life
Er'd in this point, which now you censure him,
And puld the Law vpon you.

Ang.
'Tis one thing to be tempted (Escalus)
Another thing to fall: I not deny
The Iury passing on the Prisoners life
May in the sworne-twelue haue a thiefe, or two Guiltier then him they try; what's open made to Iustice,
That Iustice ceizes; What knowes the Lawes
That theeues do passe on theeues? 'Tis very pregnant,
The Iewell that we finde, we stoope, and take't,
Because we see it; but what we doe not see,
We tread vpon, and neuer thinke of it.
You may not so extenuate his offence,
For I haue had such faults; but rather tell me
When I, that censure him, do so offend,
Let mine owne Iudgement patterne out my death,
And nothing come in partiall. Sir, he must dye.

Enter Prouost.

Esc.
Be it as your wisedome will.

Ang.
Where is the Prouost?

Pro.
Here if it like your honour.

Ang.
See that Claudio
Be executed by nine to morrow morning,
Bring him his Confessor, let him be prepar'd,
For that's the vtmost of his pilgrimage.

Esc.
Well: heauen forgiue him; and forgiue vs all:
Some rise by sinne, and some by vertue fall:
Some run from brakes of Ice, and answere none,
And some condemned for a fault alone.

Enter Elbow, Froth, Clowne, Officers.

Elb.
Come, bring them away: if these be good peo ple in a Common-weale, that doe nothing but vse their abuses in common houses, I know no law: bring them away.
Ang.
How now Sir, what's your name? And what's the matter?

Elb.
If it please your honour, I am the poore Dukes Constable, and my name is Elbow; I doe leane vpon Iustice Sir, and doe bring in here before your good honor, two notorious Benefactors.

Ang.
Benefactors? Well: What Benefactors are they? Are they not Malefactors?

Elb.
If it please your honour, I know not well what they are: But precise villaines they are, that I am sure of, and void of all prophanation in the world, that good Christians ought to haue.

Esc.
This comes off well: here's a wise Officer.

Ang.
Goe to: What quality are they of? Elbow is your name?
Why do'st thou not speake Elbow?

Clo.
He cannot Sir: he's out at Elbow.

Ang.
What are you Sir?

Elb.
He Sir: a Tapster Sir: parcell Baud: on e that serues a bad woman: whose house Sir was (as they say) pluckt downe in the Suburbs: and now shee professes a hot house; which, I thinke is a very ill house too.

Esc.
How know you that?

Elb.
My wife Sir? whom I detest before heauen, and your honour.

Esc.
How? thy wife?

Elb.
I Sir: whom I thanke heauen is an honest wo man.

Esc.
Do'st thou detest her therefore?

Elb.
I say sir, I will detest; my selfe also, as well as she, that this house, if it be not a Bauds house, it is pitty of her life, for it is a naughty house.

Esc.
How do'est thou know that, Constable?

Elb.
Marry sir, by my wife, who, if she had bin a woman Cardinaly giuen, might haue bin accus'd in fornication, adultery, and all vncleanliness there.

Esc.
By the womans meanes?

Elb.
I sir, by Mistris Ouer dons meanes: but as she spit in his face, so she defide him.

Clo.
Sir, if it please your honor, this is not so.

Elb.
Prove it before these varlets here, thou honorable man, prove it.

Esc.
Doe you heare how he misplaces?

Clo.
Sir, she came in great with childe: and longing (sauing your honors reuerence) for stedwd prewyns; sir, we had but two in the house, which at that very distant time stood, as it were in a fruit dish (a dish of some three pence; your honours haue seene such dishes) they are not China-dishes, but very good dishes.

Esc.
Go too: go too: no matter for the dish sir.

Clo.
No indeede sir not of a pin; you are therein in the right: but, to the point: As I say, this Mistris Elbow, being (as I say) with childe, and being great bellied, and longing (as I said) for prewyns: and having but two in the dish (as I said) Master Froth here, this very man, having eaten the rest (as I said) & (as I say) paying for them very honestly: for, as you know Master Froth, I could not giue you three pence againe.

Fro.
No indeede.

Clo.
Very well: you being then (if you be remembred) cracking the stones of the foresaid prewyns.

Fro.
I, so I did indeede.

Clo.
Why, very well: I telling you then (if you be remembred) that such a one, and such a one, were past cure of the thing you wot of, vnlesse they kept very good diet, as I told you.

Fro.
All this is true.

Clo.
Why very well then.

Esc.
Come: you are a tedious fool: to the purpose:
what was done to Elbowes wife, that he hath cause to complain of? Come me to what was done to her.

Clo.
Sir, your honor cannot come to that yet.

Esc.
No sir, nor I meane it not.

Clo.
Sir, but you shall come to it, by your honours leave: And I beseech you, looke into Master Froth here sir, a man of foure-score pound a yeare; whose father died at Hallowmas: Was't not at Hallowmas Master Froth?

Fro.
Allhallond-Eue.

Clo.
Why very well: I hope here be truthes: he Sir, sitting (as I say) in a lower chaire,
Sir, 'twas in the bunch of Grapes, where indeede you haue a delight to sit, haue you not?

Fro.
I haue so, because it is an open roome, and good for winter.

Clo.
Why very well then: I hope here be truthes.

Ang.
This will last out a night in Russia
When nights are longest there: Ile take my leave,
And leave you to the hearing of the cause;
Hoping youle finde good cause to whip them all.

Exit.

Esc.
I thinke no lesse: good morrow to your Lord ship. Now Sir, come on: What was done to Elbowes wife, once more?

Clo.
Once Sir? there was nothing done to her once.

Elb.
I beseech you Sir, aske him what this man did to my wife.

Clo.
I beseech your honor, aske me.

Esc.
Well sir, what did this Gentleman to her?

Clo.
I beseech you sir, looke in this Gentlemans face:
good Master Froth looke vpon his honor; 'tis for a good purpose: doth your honor marke his face?
F3

[Page 66]

Measure for Measure.

Esc.
I sir, very well.
Clo.
Nay, I beseech you marke it well.

Esc.
Well, I doe so.

Clo.
Doth your honor see any harme in his face?

Esc.
Why no.

Clo.
Ile be supposd vpon a booke, his face is the worst thing about him: good then: if his face be the worst thing about him, how could Master Froth doe the Constables wife any harme? I would know that of your honour.

Esc.
He's in the right (Constable) what say you to it?

Elb.
First, and it like you, the house is a respected house; next, this is a respected fellow; and his Mistris is a respected woman.

Clo.
By this hand Sir, his wife is a more respected person then any of vs all.

Elb.
Varlet, thou lyest; thou lyest wicked varlet: the time is yet to come that shee was euer respected with man, woman, or childe.

Clo.
Sir, she was respected with him, before he married with her.

Esc.
Which is the wiser here; Justice or Iniquitie? Is this true?

Elb.
O thou caytiffe: O thou varlet: O thou wicked Hannibal; I respected with her, before I was married to her? If euer I was respected with her, or she with me, let not your worship thinke mee the poore Dukes Officer: proue this, thou wicked Hannibal, or ile haue mine action of battry on thee.

Esc.
If he tooke you a box o'th' eare, you might haue your action of slander too.

Elb.
Marry I thanke your good worship for it: what is't your Worsips pleasure I shall doe with this wicked Caitiffe?

Esc.
Truly Officer, because he hath some offences in him, that thou wouldst discouer, if thou couldst, let him continue in his courses, till thou knowst what they are.
Elb.
Marry I thanke your worship for it: Thou seest thou wicked varlet now, what's come vpon thee. Thou art to continue now thou Varlet, thou art to continue.
Esc.
Where were you borne, friend?
Froth.
Here in Vienna, Sir.
Esc.
Are you of fourescore pounds a yeere?
Froth.
Yes, and't please you sir.
Esc.
So: what trade are you of, sir?
Clo.
A Tapster, a poore widdowes Tapster.
Esc.
Your Mistris name?
Clo.
Mistris Ouer-don.
Esc.
Hath she had any more then one husband?
Clo.
Nine, sir: Ouer don by the last.
Esc.
Nine? come hether to me, Master Froth; Master
Froth, I would not haue you acquainted with Tapsters;
they will draw you Master Froth, and you wil hang them:
get you gon, and let me heare no more of you.
Fro.
I thanke your worship: for mine owne part, I neuer come into any roome in a Taphouse, but I am drawne in.
Esc.
Well: no more of it Master Froth: farewell:
Come you hether to me, Mr. Tapster: what's your name Mr. Tapster?
Clo.
Pompey.
Esc.
What else?
Clo.
Bum, Sir.
Esc.
Troth, and your bum is the greatest thing about you, so that in the beastliest sence, you are Pompey the great; Pompey, you are partly a bawd, Pompey; howso euer you colour it in being a Tapster, are you not? come, tell me true, it shall be the better for you.
Clo.
Truly sir, I am a poore fellow that would liue.
Esc.
How would you liue Pompey? by being a bawd?
what doe you thinke of the trade Pompey? is it a lawfull trade?
Clo.
If the Law would allow it, sir.
Esc.
But the Law will not allow it Pompey; nor it shall not be allowed in Vienna.
Clo.
Do's your Worship meane to geld and splay all the youth of the City?
Esc.
No, Pompey.
Clo.
Truely Sir, in my poore opinion they will too't then: if your worship will take order for the drabs and the knaues, you need not to feare the bawds.
Esc.
There is pretty orders beginning I can tell you: It is but heading, and hanging.
Clo.
If you head, and hang all that offend that way but for ten yeare together; you'll be glad to glue out a Commission for more heads: if this law hold in Vienna ten yeare, ile rent the fairest house in it after three pence a Bay: if you liue to see this come to passe, say Pompey told you so.
Esc.
Thanke you good Pompey; and in requitall of your prophesie, harke you: I aduise you let me not finde you before me againe vpon any complaint whatsoeuer; no, not for dwelling where you doe: if I doe Pompey, I shall beat you to your Tent, and proue a shrewd Caesar to you: in plaine dealing Pompey, I shall haue you whipt; so for this time, Pompey, fare you well.
Clo.
I thanke your Worship for your good counsell; but I shall follow it as the flesh and fortune shall better determine. Whip me? no, no, let Carman whip his Iade, The valiant heart's not whipt out of his trade.
Exit.
Esc.
Come hether to me, Master Elbow: come hither Master Constable: how long haue you bin in this place of Constable?
Elb.
Seuen yeere, and a halfe sir.
Esc.
I thought by the readinesse in the office, you had continued in it some time: you say seauen yeares together.

Elb.
And a halfe sir.

Esc.
Alas, it hath bee ne great paines to you: they do you wrong to put you so oft vpon't. Are there not men in your Ward sufficient to serue it?

Elb.
'Faith sir, few of any wit in such matters: as they are chosen, they are glad to choose me for them; I do it for some peece of money, and goe through with all.

Esc.
Looke you bring mee in the names of some sixe or seuen, the most sufficient of your parish.

Elb.
To your Worships house sir?

Esc.
To my house: fare you well: what's a clocke, thinke you?

Iust.
Eleuen, Sir.

Esc.
I pray you home to dinner with me.

Iust.
I humbly thanke you.

Esc.
It grieues me for the death of Claudio
But there's no remedie:

Iust.
Lord Angelo is seuere.

Esc.
It is but needfull.
Mercy is not it selfe, that oft lookes so,
Pardon is still the nurse of second woe:
But yet, poore Claudio; there is no remedie.

Come Sir.

Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

[Act 2, Scene 2]

Measure for Measure.

Enter Provost, Servant.

Ser.
Hee's hearing of a Cause; he will come straight,
I'le tell him of you.

Pro.
'Pray you doe; Ile know
His pleasure, may be he will relent; alas
He hath but as offended in a dreame,
All Sects, all Ages smack of this vice, and he
To die for’t?

Enter Angelo.

Ang.
Now, what's the matter Prouost?
Pro.
Is it your will Claudio shall die to morrow?
Ang.
Did not I tell thee yea? hadst thou not order?
Why do'st thou aske againe?
Pro.
Lest I might be too rash:
Vnder your good correction, I haue seene
When after execution, Judgement hath Repented ore his doome.
Ang.
Goe to; let that be mine,
Doe you your office, or giue vp your Place,
And you shall well be spar'd.
Pro.
I craue your Honours pardon:
What shall be done Sir, with the groaning Juliets
Shee's very neere her howre.
Ang.
 Dispose of her
To some more fitter place; and that with speed.
Ser.
Here is the sister of the man condem'n'd,
Desires accesse to you.
Ang.
Hath he a Sister?
Pro.
I my good Lord, a very vertuous maid,
And to be shortlie of a Sister-hood,
If not alreadie.
Ang.
Well: let her be admitted,
See you the Fornicatresse be remou'd,
Let her haue needfull, but not lauish meanes,
There shall be order for't.

Enter Lucio and Isabella.

Pro.
'Saue your Honour.
Ang.
Stay a little while: y'are welcome: what's your (will?
Isab.
I am a wofull Sutor to your Honour,
'Please but your Honor heare me.
Ang.
Well: what's your suite.

Isab.
There is a vice that most I doe abhorre,
And most desire should meet the blow of Iustice;
For which I would not plead, but that I must,
For which I must not plead, but that I am
At warre, twixt will, and will not.

Ang.
Well: the matter?

Isab.
I haue a brother is condemn'd to die,
I doe beseech you let it be his fault,
And not my brother.

Pro.
Heauen giue thee mouing graces.

Ang.
Condemne the fault, and not the actor of it,
Why euery fault's condemnd ere it be done:
Mine were the verie Cipher of a Function
To fine the faults, whose fine stands in record,
And let goe by the Actor:

Isab.
Oh iust, but seuere Law:
I had a brother then; heauen keepe your honour.

Luc.
Giue't not ore so: to him againe, entreat him,
Kneele downe before him, hang vpon his gowne,
You are too cold: if you should need a pin,
You could not with more tame a tongue desire it:
To him, I say.

Isab.
Must he needs die?

Ang.
Maiden, no remedie.

Isab.
Yes: I doe thinke that you might pardon him,
And neither heauen, nor man grieue at the mercy.

Ang.
I will not doe't.

Isab.
But can you if you would?

Ang.
Looke what I will not, that I cannot doe.

Isab.
But might you doe't & do the world no wrong
If so your heart were touch'd with that remorse,
As mine is to him?

Ang.
Hee's sentenc'd, tis too late.

Luc.
You are too cold.

Isab.
Too late? why no: I that doe speak a word
May call it againe: well, beleue this
No ceremony that to great ones longs,
Not the Kings Crowne; nor the deputed sword,
The Marshalls Truncheon, nor the Judges Robe
Become them with one halfe so good a grace
As mercie does: If he had bin as you, and you as he,
You would haue slipt like him, but he like you
Would not haue beene so sterne.

Ang.
Pray you be gone.

Isab.
I would to heauen I had your potencie,
And you were Isabell: should it then be thus?
No: I would tell what 'twere to be a Iudge,
And what a prisoner.

Luc.
I, touch him: there's the vaine.

Ang.
Your Brother is a forfeit of the Law,
And you but waste your words.

Isab.
Alas, alas:
Why all the soules that were, were forfeit once,
And he that might the vantage best haue tooke,
Found out the remedie: how would you be,
If he, which is the top of Iudgement, should
But iudge you, as you are? Oh, thinke on that,
And mercie then will breathe within your lips
Like man new made.

Ang.
Be you content, (faire Maid)
It is the Law, not I, condemne your brother,
Were he my kinsman, brother, or my sonne,
It should be thus with him: he must die to morrow.

Isab.
To morrow? oh, that's sodaine,
Spare him, spare him:
Hec's not prepar'd for death; euen for our kichins
We kill the fowle of season: shall we serue heauen
With lesse respect then we doe minister
To our grosse-selues? good, good my Lord, bethink you;
Who is it that hath di'd for this offence?
There's many haue committed it.

Luc.
I, well said.

Ang.
The Law hath not bin dead, thogh it hath slept
Those many had not dar'd to doe that euill
If the first; that did th'Edict infringe
Had answer'd for his deed. Now 'tis awake,
Takes note of what is done, and like a Prophet
Lookes in a glasse that shewes what future euils
Either now, or by remissenesse, new conceiu'd,
And so in progresse to be hatch'd, and borne,
Are now to haue no successiue degrees,
But here they liue to end.

Isab.
Yet shew some pittie.

Ang.
I shew it most of all, when I show Iustice;
For then I pittie those I doe not know,
Which a dismis'd offence, would after gaule
And doe him right, that answering one foule wrong
Liues not to act another. Be satisfied;
Your Brother dies to morrow; be content.

Isab.
So you must be (y)the first that giues this sentence,
And hee, that suffers: Oh, it is excellent
To haue a Giants stre
[190x394]ngth: but it is tyrannous
To vse it like a Giant.

Luc.
That's well said.

Isab.
Could great men thunder
As Ioue himselfe do's, Ioue would neuer be quiet,
For euery pelting petty Officer
Would vse his heauen for thunder;
Nothing but thunder: Mercifull heauen,
Thou rather with thy sharpe and sulphurous bolt
Splits the vn-wedgable and gnarled Oke,
Then the soft Mertill: But man, proud man,
Drest in a little briefe authoritie,
Most ignorant of what he's most assur'd,
(His glassie Essence) like an angry Ape
Plaies such phantastique tricks before high heauen,
As makes the Angels weepe: who with our spleenes,
Would all themselues laugh mortall.

Luc.
Oh, to him, to him wench: he will relent,
Hee's comming: I perceiue't.

Pro.
Pray heauen she win him.

Isab.
We cannot weigh our brother with our selfe,
Great men may iest with Saints: tis wit in them,
But in the lesse fowle prophanation.

Luc.
Thou'rt i'th right (Girle) more o'that.
Isab.
That in the Captaine's but a chollericke word,
Which in the Souldier is flat blasphemie.
Luc.
Art auis'd o'that? more on't.
Ang.
Why doe you put these sayings vpon me?
Isab.
Because Authoritie, though it erre like others,
Hath yet a kinde of medicine in it selfe
That skins the vice o'th top; goe to your bosome,
Knock there, and aske your heart what it doth know
That's like my brothers fault: if it confesse
A naturall guiltinesse, such as is his,
Let it not sound a thought vpon your tongue
Against my brothers life.
Ang.
Shee speakes, and 'tis such sence
That my Sence breeds with it; fare you well.
Isab.
Gentle my Lord, turne backe.
Ang.
I will bethinke me: come againe to morrow.
Isa.
Hark, how Ile bribe you: good my Lord turn back.
Ang.
How? bribe me?
Is.
I, with such gifts that heauen shall share with you.
Luc.
You had mar'd all else.
Isab.
Not with fond Sickles of the tested-gold,
Or Stones, whose rate are either rich, or poore
As fancie values them: but with true prayers,
That shall be vp at heauen, and enter there
Ere Sunne rise: prayers from preserued soules,
From fasting Maides, whose mindes are dedicate
To nothing temporall.
Ang.
Well: come to me to morrow.
Luc.
Goe to: 'tis well; away.
Isab.
Heauen keepe your honour safe.
Ang.
Amen.
For I am that way going to temptation,
Where prayers crosse.
Isab.
At what hower to morrow,
Shall I attend your Lordship?

Ang.
At any time 'fore-noone.

Isab.
'Saue your Honour.

Ang.
From thee: euen from thy vertue.
What's this? what's this? is this her fault, or mine?
The Tempter, or the Tempted, who sins most? ha?
Not she: nor doth she tempt: but it is I,
That, lying by the Violet in the Sunne,
Doe as the Carrion do's, not as the flowre,
Corrupt with vertuous season: Can it be,
That Modesty may more betray our Sence
Then womans lightnesse? hauing waste ground enough,
Shall we desire to raze the Sanctuary
And pitch our euils there? oh fie, fie, fie:
What dost thou? or what art thou Angelo?
Dost thou desire her fowly, for those things
That make her good? oh, let her brother liue:
Theeues for their robbery haue authority,
When Judges steale themselues: what, doe I loue her,
That I desire to heare her speake againe?
And feast vpon her eyes? what is't I dreame on?
Oh cunning enemy, that to catch a Saint,
With Saints dost bait thy hooke: most dangerous
Is that temptation, that doth goad vs on
To sinne, in louing vertue: neuer could the Strumpet
With all her double vigor, Art, and Nature
Once stir my temper: but this vertuous Maid
Subdues me quite: Euer till now
When men were fond, I smild, and wondred how.
Exit.

Scena Tertia.
[Act 2, Scene 3]

Enter Duke and Prouost.

Duke.
Haile to you, Prouost, so I thinke you are.

Pro.
I am the Prouost: whats your will, good Frier?

Duke.
Bound by my charity, and my blest order,
I come to visite the afflicted spirits
Here in the prison: doe me the common right
To let me see them: and to make me know
The nature of their crimes, that I may minister
To them accordingly.

Pro.
I would do more then that, if more were needfull

Enter Iuliet.
Looke here comes one: a Gentlewoman of mine,
Who falling in the flawes of her owne youth,
Hath blisterd her report: She is with childe,
And he that got it, sentenc'd: a yong man,
More fit to doe another such offence,
Then dye for this.

Duk.
When must he dye?

Pro.
As I do thinke to morrow.
I haue prouided for you, stay a while
And you shall be conducted.

Duk.
Repent you (faire one) of the sin you carry?

Iul.
I doe; and beare the shame most patiently.

Du.
Ile teach you how you shal araign your conscience
And try your penitence, if it be sound,
Or hollowly put on.

Iul.
Ile gladly learne.

Duk.
Loue you the man that wrong'd you?

Iul.
Yes, as I loue the woman that wrong'd him.

Duk.
So then it seemes your most offence full act
Was mutually committed.

Iul.
Mutually.

Duk.
Then was your sin of heauier kinde then his.

Iul.
I doe confesse it, and repent it (Father.)

Du. 'Tis

Measure for Measure.

Duk.
'Tis meet so (daughter) but least you do repent
As that the sin hath brought you to this shame,
Which sorrow is alwaies toward our selues, not heauen,
Showing we would not spare heauen, as we loue it,
But as we stand in feare.

Iul.
I doe repent me, as it is an euill,
And take the shame with ioy.

Duke.
There rest:
Your partner (as I heare) must die to morrow,
And I am going with instruction to him:
Grace goe with you, Benedicite.

Exit.

Iul.
 Must die to morrow? oh iniurious Loue
That respits me a life, whose very comfort
Is still a dying horror.

Pro.
'Tis pitty of him.

Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.
[Act 2, Scene 4]

Enter Angelo.

An.

When I would pray, & think, I thinke, and pray
To seuerall subiects: heauen hath my empty words,
Whilst my Inuention, hearing not my Tongue,
Anchors on Isabell: heauen in my mouth,
As if I did but onely chew his name,
And in my heart the strong and swelling euill
Of my conception: the state whereon I studied
Is like a good thing, being often read
Growne feard, and tedious: yea, my Grauitie
Wherein (let no man heare me) I take pride,
Could I, with boote, change for an idle plume
Which the ayre beats for vaine: oh place, oh forme,
Wrench awe from fooles, and tye the wiser soules
To thy false seeming? Blood, thou art blood,
Let's write good Angell on the Deuills horne
'Tis not the Deuills Crest: how now? who's there?

Enter Servant.

Ser.

One Isabell, a Sister, desires accesse to you.

Ang.

Teach her the way: oh, heauens
Why doe's my bloud thus muster to my heart,
Making both it vnable for it selfe,
And dispossessing all my other parts
Of necessary fitnesse?
So play the foolish throngs with one that swounds,
Come all to help him, and so stop the ayre
By which hee should reuie: and even so
The generall subiect to a wel-wisht King
Quit their owne part, and in obsequious fondnesse
Crowd to his presence, where their vn-taught loue
Must needs appear offence: how now faire Maid.

Enter Isabella.

Isab.

I am come to know your pleasure.

An.
That you might know it, wold much better please (me,
Then to demand what 'tis: your Brother cannot liue.

Isab.
Euen so: heauen keepe your Honor.

Ang.
Yet may he liue a while: and it may be
As long as you, or I: yet he must die.

Isab.
Vnder your Sentence?

Ang.
Yea.

Isab.
When, I beseech you: that in his Reprieue (Longer, or shorter) he may be so fitted
That his soule sicken not.

Ang.
Ha? fie, these filthy vices: It were as good
To pardon him, that hath from nature stolne
A man already made, as to remit
Their sawcie sweetnes, that do coyne heauens Image
In stamps that are forbid: 'tis all as easie,
Falsely to take away a life true made,
As to put mettle in restrained meanes
To make a false one.

Isab.
'Tis set downe so in heauen, but not in earth.

Ang.
Say you so: then I shall poze you quickly.
Which had you rather, that the most iust Law
Now tooke your brothers life, and to redeeme him
Giuue vp your body to such sweet vncleannesse
As she that he hath staind?

Isab.
Sir, beleue this.
I had rather giue my body, then my soule.

Ang.
I talke not of your soule: our compel'd sins
Stand more for number, then for accompt.

Isab.
How say you?

Ang.
Nay Ile not warrant that: for I can speake
Against the thing I say: Answer to this,
I (now the voyce of the recorded Law)
Pronounce a sentence on your Brothers life,
Might there not be a charitie in sinne,
To saue this Brothers life?

Isab.
Please you to doo't,
Ile take it as a perill to my soule,
It is no sin at all, but charitie.

Ang.
Pleas'd you to doo't, at perill of your soule
Were equall poize of sinne, and charitie.

Isab.
That I do beg his life, if it be sinne
Heauen let me beare it: you granting of my suit,
If that be sin, Ile make it my Morne-prayer,
To haue it added to the faults of mine,
And nothing of your answere.

Ang.
Nay, but heare me,
Your sence pursues not mine: either you are ignorant,
Or seeme so crafty; and that's not good.

Isab.
Let be ignorant, and in nothing good,
But graciously to know I am no better.

Ang.
Thus wisdome wishes to appeare most bright,
When it doth taxe it selfe: As these blacke Masques
Proclaime an en-shield beauty ten times louder
Then beauty could displaied: But marke me,
To be receiued plaine, Ile speake more grosse:
Your Brother is to dye.

Isab.
So.

Ang.
And his offence is so, as it appeares,
Accountant to the Law, vpon that paine.

Isab.
True.

Ang.
Admit no other way to saue his life
(As I subscribe not that, nor any other,
But in the losse of question) that you, his Sister,
Finding your selfe desir'd of such a person,
Whose creadit with the Iudge, or owne great place,
Could fetch your Brother from the Manacles
Of the all-building-Law: and that there were
No earthly meane to saue him, but that either
You must lay downe the treasures of your body,
To this supposed, or else to let him suffer:
What would you doe?

Isab.
As much for my poore Brother, as my selfe;
That is: were I vnder the tearmes of death,
Th'impression of keene whips, I'd weare as Rubies,
And strip my selfe to death, as to a bed,
That longing haue bin sicke for, ere I'd yeeld
My body vp to shame.

Ang. That Measure for Measure.

Ang.
Then must your brother die.

Isa.
And 'twer the cheaper way:
Better it were a brother dide at once,
Then that a sister, by redeeming him
Should die for euer.

Ang.
Were not you then as cruell as the Sentence,
That you haue slander'd so?

Isa.
Ignomie in ransome, and free pardon
Are of two houses: lawfull mercie,
Is nothing kin to fowle redemption.

Ang.
You seem'd of late to make the Law a tirant,
And rather prou'd the sliding of your brother
A merriment, then a vice.

Isa.
Oh pardon me my Lord, it oft fals out
To haue, what we would haue,
We speake not what vve meane;
I something do excuse the thing I hat
For his aduantage that I dearely loue.

Ang.
We are all fraile.

Isa.
Else let my brother die,
If not a fedarie but onely he Owe, and succeed thy weaknesse.

Ang.
Nay, women are fraile too.

Isa.
I, as the glasses where they view themselues,
Which are as easie broke as they make formes:
Women? Helpe heauen; men their creation marre
In profiting by them: Nay, call vs ten times fraile,
For we are soft, as our complexions are,
And credulous to false prints.

Ang.
I thinke it well:
And from this testimonie of your owne sex
(Since I suppose we are made to be no stronger
Then faults may shake our frames) let me be bold;
I do arrest your words. Be that you are,
That is a woman; if you be more, you'r none.
If you be one (as you are well exprest
By all externall warrants) shew it now,
By putting on the destin'd Liuerie.
Isa.
I haue no tongue but one; gentle my Lord,
Let me entreat you speake the former language.

Ang.
Plainlie conceiue I loue you.

Isa.
My brother did loue Iuliet,
And you tell me that he shall die for't.

Ang.
He shall not Isabell if you giue me loue.

Isa.
I know your vertue hath a licence in't,
Which seemes a little fouler then it is,
To plucke on others.

Ang.
Believe me on mine Honor,
My words expresse my purpose.

Isa.
Ha? Little honor, to be much believe'd,
And most pernicious purpose: Seeming, seeming.
I will proclaime thee Angelo, looke for't.
Signe me a present pardon for my brother,
Or with an out-stretcht throate Ie tell the world aloud
What man thou art.

Ang.
Who will believe thee Isabell?
My vnsoild name, th' austereenesse of my life,
My vouch against you, and my place i'th State,
Will so your accusation ouer-weigh,
That you shall stifle in your owne report,
And smell of calumnie. I haue begun,
And now I giue my sensuall race, the reyne,
Fit thy consent to my sharpe appetite,
Lay by all nicetie, and prolixious blushes
That banish what they sue for: Redeeme thy brother,
By yeelding vp thy bodie to my will,
Or else he must not onelie die the death,
But thy vnkindnesse shall his death draw out
To lingering sufferance: Answer me to morrow,
Or by the affection that now guides me most,
Ile proue a Tirant to him. As for you,
Say what you can; my false, ore-weighs your true.
Exit.

Isa.
To whom should I complaine? Did I tell this,
Who would believe me? O perilous mouthes
That beare in them, one and the selfesame tongue,
Either of condemnation, or approofe,
Bidding the Law make curtsie to their will,
Hooking both right and wrong to th' appetite,
To follow as it drawes. Ile to my brother,
Though he hath falne by prompture of the blood,
Yet hath he in him such a minde of Honor,
That had he twentie heads to tender downe
On twentie bloodie blockes, hee'ld yeeld them vp,
Before his sister should her bodie stoope
To such abbord pollution.
Then Isabella liue chaste, and brother die;
"More then our Brother, is our Chastitie.
Ile tell him yet of Angelo's request,
And fit his minde to death, for his soules rest.
Exit.

Actus Tertius. Scena Prima.
[Act 3, Scene 1]

Enter Duke, Claudio, and Prouost.

Du.
So then you hope of pardon from Lord Angelo?

Cla.
The miserable haue no other medicine
But onely hope: I'haue hope to liue, and am prepar'd to die.

Duke.
Be absolute for death: either death or life
Shall thereby be the sweeter. Reason thus with life:
If I do loose thee, I do loose a thing
That none but fooles would keepe: a breath thou art,
Seruile to all the skye-influences
That dost this habitation where thou keepst
Hourely afflict: Meerely, thou art deaths foole,
For him thou labourest by thy flight to shun,
And yet runst toward him still. Thou art not noble,
For all th' accommodations that thou bearst,
Are nurst by basenesse: Thou'rt by no meanes valiant,
For thou dost feare the soft and tender forke
Of a poore worme: thy best of rest is sleepe,
And that thou oft prouoakst, yet grosselie fearst;
Thy death, which is no more. Thou art not thy selfe,
For thou exists on manie a thousand graines
That issue out of dust. Happie thou art not,
For what thou hast not, still thou striu'st to get,
And what thou hast forgetst. Thou art not certaine,
For thy complexion shifts to strange effects,
After the Moone: If thou art rich, thou'rt poore,
For like an Asse, whose backe with Ingots bowes;
Thou bearst thy heauie riches but a iournie,
And death vnloads thee; Friend hast thou none.
For thine owne bowels which do call thee, fire
The meere effusion of thy proper loines
Do curse the Gowt, Sapego, and the Rheume
For ending thee no sooner. Thou hast nor youth, nor age
But as it were an after-dinners sleepe
Dreaming on both, for all thy blessed youth
Becomes as aged, and doth begge the almes
Of palsied-Eld: and when thou art old, and rich
Thou hast; neither heate, affection, limbe, nor beautie
To make thy riches pleasant: what's yet in this
That beares the name of life? Yet in this life
Lie hid moe thousand deaths; yet death we feare
That makes these oddes, all euen.

Cla.
I humblie thanke you.
To sue to liue, I finde I seeke to die,
And seeking death, finde life: Let it come on.

Enter Isabella.

Isab.
What hoa? Peace heere; Grace, and good com panion.

Pro.
Who's there? Come in, the wish deserues a welcome.

Duke.
Deere sir, ere long Ile visit you againe.

Cla.
Most holie Sir, I thanke you.

Isa.
My businesse is a word or two with Claudio.

Pro.
And verie welcom: looke Signior, here's your sister.

Duke.
Prouost, a word with you.

Pro.
As manie as you please.

Duke.
Bring them to heare me speak, where I may be conceal'd.

Cla.
Now sister, what's the comfort?

Isa.
Why,
As all comforts are: most good, most good indeede,
Lord Angelo hauing affaires to heauen
Intends you for his swift Ambassador,
Where you shall be an euerlasting Leiger;
Therefore your best appointment make with speed,
To Morrow you set on.

Clau.
Is there no remedie?

Isa.
None, but such remedie, as to saue a head
To cleaue a heart in twaine:

Clau.
But is there anie?

Isa.
Yes brother, you may liue;
There is a diuellish mercie in the Iudge,
If you'l implore it, that will free your life,
But fetter you till death.

Cla.
Perpetuall durance?

Isa.
I iust, perpetuall durance, a restraint
Through all the worlds vastiditie you had
To a determin'd scope.

Clau.
But in what nature?

Isa.
In such a one, as you consenting too't,
Would barke your honor from that trunke you beare,
And leaue you naked.

Clau.
Let me know the point.

Isa.
Oh, I do feare thee Claudio, and I quake,
Least thou a feauorous life shouldst entertaine,
And six or seuen winters more respect
Then a perpetuall Honor. Dar'st thou die?
The sence of death is most in apprehension,
And the poore Beetle that we treade vpon
In corporall sufferance, finds a pang as great,
As when a Giant dies.

Cla.
Why giue you me this shame?
Think you I can a resolution fetch
From flowrie tendernesse? If I must die,
I will encounter darknesse as a bride,
And hugge it in mine armes.

Isa.
There spake my brother: there my fathers graue
Did vtter forth a voice. Yes, thou must die:
Thou art too noble, to conserue a life
In base appliances. This outward sainted Deputie,
Whose setled visage, and deliberate word
Nips youth i'th head, and follies doth emmew
As Falcon doth the Fowle, is yet a diuell:
His filth within being cast, he would appeare
A pond, as deepe as hell.

Cla.
The prenzie, Angelo?

Isa.
Oh 'tis the cunning Luerie of hell,
The damnest bodie to inuest, and couer
In prenzie gardes; dost thou thinke Claudio,
If I would yeeld him my virginitie
Thou might'st be freed?

Cla.
Oh heauens, it cannot be.

Isa.
Yes, he would giu't thee; from this rank offence
So to offend him still. This night's the time
That I should do what I abhorre to name,
Or else thou diest to morrow.

Clau.
Thou shalt not do't.

Isa.
O, were it but my life,
I'de throw it downe for your deliuerance
As frankly as a pin.

Clau.
Thankes deere Isabell.

Isa.
Be readie Claudio, for your death to morrow.

Clau.
Yes. Has he affections in him,
That thus can make him bite the Law by th'nose,
When he would force it? Sure it is no sinne,
Or of the deadly seuen it is the least.

Isa.
Which is the least?

Cla.
If it were damnable, he being so wise,
Why would he for the momentarie tricke
Be perdurablie fin'de? Oh Isabell.

Isa.
What saies my brother?

Cla.
Death is a fearefull thing.

Isa.
And shamed life, a hatefull.

Cla.
I, but to die, and go we know not where,
To lie in cold obstruction, and to rot,
This sensible warme motion, to become
A kneaded clod; And the delighted spirit
To bath in fierie floods, or to recide
In thrilling Region of thicke-ribbed Ice,
To be imprison'd in the viewlesse windes
And blowne with restlesse violence round about
The pendant world: or to be worse then worst
Of those, that lawlesse and incertaine thought,
Imagine howling, 'tis too horrible.
The weariest, and most loathed worldly life
That Age, Ache, periury, and imprisonment
Can lay on nature, is a Paradise
To what we feare of death.

Isa.
Alas, alas.

Cla.
Sweet Sister, let me liue.
What sinne you do, to saue a brothers life,
Nature dispenses with the deede so farre,
That it becomes a vertue.

Isa.
Oh you beast,
Oh faithlesse Coward, oh dishonest wretch,
Wilt thou be made a man, out of my vice?
Is't not a kinde of Incest, to take life
From thine owne sisters shame? What should I thinke, Heauen shield my Mother plaid my Father faire:
For such a warped slip of wilderness,
Nere issu'd from his blood. Take my defiance,
Die, perish: Might but my bending downe
Repreeue thee from thy fate, it should proceede.
Ile pray a thousand praiers for thy death,
No word to saue thee.

Cla.
Nay heare me Isabell.

Isa.
Oh fie, fie, fie:
Thy sinn's not accidentall, but a Trade;
Mercie Measure for Measure.
Mercy to thee would proue it selfe a Bawd,
'Tis best that thou diest quickly.

Cla.
Oh heare me Isabella.

Duk.
Vouchsafe a word, yong sister, but one word.

Isa.
What is your Will.

Duk.
Might you dispense with your leysure, I would by and by haue some speech with you: the satisfaction I would require, is likewise your owne benefit.

Isa.
I haue no superfluous leysure, my stay must be stolen out of other affaires: but I will attend you a while.

Duke.
Son, I haue ouer-heard what hath past between you & your sister. Angelo had neuer the purpose to cor rupt her; onely he hath made an assay of her vertue, to practise his iudgement with the disposition of natures.
She (hauing the truth of honour in her) hath made him that gracious deniall, which he is most glad to receiue: I am Confessor to Angelo, and I know this to be true, ther fore prepare your selfe to death: do not satisfie your res olution with hopes that are fallible, to morrow you must die, goe to your knees, and make ready.

Cla.
Let me ask my sister pardon, I am so out of loue with life, that I will sue to be rid of it.

Duke.
Hold you there: farewell: Prouost, a word with you.

Pro.
What's your will (father?)

Duk.
That now you are come, you wil be gone: leaue me a while with the Maid, my minde promises with my habit, no losse shall touch her by my company.

Pro.
In good time.
Exit.

Duk.
The hand that hath made you faire, hath made you good: the goodnes that is cheape in beauty, makes beauty briefe in goodnes; but grace being the soule of your complexion, shall keepe the body of it euer faire: the assault that Angelo hath made to you, Fortune hath conuaid to my vnderstanding; and but that frailty hath examples for his falling, I should wonder at Angelo: how will you doe to content this Substitute, and to saue your Brother?

Isab.
I am now going to resolue him: I had rather my brother die by the Law, then my sonne should be vn lawfullie borne. But (oh) how much is the good Duke deceiu'd in Angelo: if euer he returne, and I can speake to him, I will open my lips in vaine, or discouer his go uernment

Duke.
That shall not be much amisse: yet, as the matter now stands, he will avoide your accusation: he made triall of you onelie. Therefore fasten your eare on my aduisings, to the loue I haue in doing good; a remedie presents it selfe. I doe make my selfe beleue that you may most uprightly do a poor wronged Lady a merited benefit; redeem your brother from the angry Law; doe no staine to your owne gracious person, and much please the absent Duke, if peraduenture he shall euer returne to haue hearing of this businesse.

Isab.
Let me heare you speake farther; I haue spirit to do any thing that appeares not fowle in the truth of my spirit.

Duke.
Vertue is bold, and goodnes neuer fearefull:
Haue you not heard speake of Mariana the sister of Fredericke the great Souldier, who miscarried at Sea?

Isa.
I haue heard of the Lady, and good words went with her name.

Duke.
Shee should this Angelo haue married: was af fianced to her oath, and the nuptiall appointed: between which time of the contract, and limit of the solemnitie, her brother Fredericke was wrackt at Sea, hauing in that perished vessell, the dowry of his sister: but marke how heauily this befell to the poore Gentlewoman, there she lost a noble and renowned brother, in his loue toward her, euer most kinde and naturall: with him the portion and sinew of her fortune, her marriage dowry: with both, her combynate-husband, this well-seeming Angelo.

Isab.
Can this be so? did Angelo so leaue her?

Duke.
Left her in her teares, & dried not one of them with his comfort: swallowed his vowes whole, prete nding in her, discoueries of dishonor: in few, bestow'd her on her owne lamentation, which she yet weares for his sake: and he, a marble to her teares, is washed with them, but relents not.

Isab.
What a merit were it in death to take this poore maid from the world? what corruption in this life, that it will let this man liue? But how out of thi she a uaile?

Duke.
It is a rupture that you may easily heale: and the cure of it not onely saues your brother, but keepes you from dishonor in doing it.

Isab.
Shew me how (good Father.)

Duk.
This fore-named Maid hath yet in her the con tinuance of her first affection: his vniust vnkindenesse (that in all reason should haue quenched her loue) hath (like an impediment in the Current) made it more vio lent and vnruly: Goe you to Angelo, answere his req uiring with a plausible obedience, agree with his demands to the point: onely referre your selfe to this advaantage; first, that your stay with him may not be long: that the time may haue all shadow, and silence in it: and the place answere to conuenience: this being granted in course, and now followes all: wee shall advise this wronged maid to steed vp your appointment, goe in your place:
if the encounter acknowledge it selfe heereafter, it may compell him to her recompence; and heere, by this is your brother saued, your honor vntainted, the poore Mariana aduantaged, and the corrupt Deputy scaled. The Maid will I frame, and make fit for his attempt: if you thinke well to carry this as you may, the doublenes of the benefit defends the deceit from reprooe. What thinke you of it?

Isab.
The image of it giues me content already, and I trust it will grow to a most prosperous perfection.

Duk.
It lies much in your holding vp: haste you spee dily to Angelo, if for this night he intreat you to his bed, giue him promise of satisfaction: I will presently to S. Lukes, there at the moated-Grange recides this deicted Mariana; at that place call vpon me, and dispatch with Angelo, that it may be quickly.

Isab.
I thank you for this comfort: fare you well good father.

Exit.

[Act 3, Scene 2] Enter Elbow, Clowne, Officers.

Elb.
Nay, if there be no remedy for it, but that you will needes buy and sell men and women like beasts, we shall haue all the world drinke browne & white bastard.

Duk.
Oh heauens, what stuffe is heere.

Clow.
Twas neuer merry world since of two vsuries the merriest was put downe, and the worser allow'd by order of Law; a fur'd growne to keepe him warme; and furd with Foxe and Lamb-skins too, to signifie, that craft being richer then Innocency, stands for the facing.

Elb.
Come your way sir: 'blesse you good Father Frier.

Duk.
And you good Brother Father; what offence hath this man made you, Sir?

Elb. Marry

Measure for Measure.

Elb.
Marry Sir, he hath offended the Law; and Sir, we take him to be a Theefe too Sir: for wee haue found vpon him Sir, a strange Pick-lock, which we haue sent to the Deputie.
Duke.
Fie, sirrah, a Bawd, a wicked bawd,
The euill that thou causest to be done,
That is thy meanes to liue. Do thou but thinke
What 'tis to cram a maw, or cloath a backe
From such a filthie vice: say to thy selfe,
From their abhominable and beastly touches
I drinke, I eate away my selfe, and liue:
Canst thou beleue thy liuing is a life,
So stinkingly depending? Go mend, go mend.

Clo.
Indeed, it do's stinke in some sort, Sir:
But yet Sir I would proue.

Duke.
Nay, if the diuell haue giuen thee proofs for sin
Thou wilt proue his. Take him to prison Officer:
Correction, and Instruction must both worke
Ere this rude beast will profit.

Elb.
He must before the Deputy Sir, he ha's giuen him warning: the Deputy cannot abide a Whore ma ster: if he be a Whore-monger, and comes before him, he were as good go a mile on his errand.

Duke.
That we were all, as some would seeme to bee
From our faults, as faults from seeming free.

Enter Lucio.

Elb.
His necke will come to your wast, a Cord sir.

Clo.
I spy comfort, I cry baile: Here's a Gentleman, and a friend of mine.

Luc.
How now noble Pompey? What, at the wheels of Cæsar? Art thou led in triumph? What is there none of Pigmalions Images newly made woman to bee had now, for putting the hand in the pocket, and extracting clutch'd? What reply? Ha? What saist thou to this Tune, Matter, and Method? Is't not drown'd i'th last raine? Ha? What saist thou Trot? Is the world as it was Man? Which is the vvay? Is it sad, and few words?
Or how? The tricke of it?

Duke.
Still thus, and thus: still vvorse?

Luc.
How doth my deere Morsell, thy Mistris? Pro cures she still? Ha?

Clo.
Troth sir, shee hath eaten vp all her beefe, and she is her selfe in the tub.

Luc.
Why 'tis good: It is the right of it: it must be so. Euer your fresh Whore and your pouder'd Baud, an vnshun'd consequence, it must be so. Art going to pris on Pompey?

Clo.
Yes faith sir.

Luc.
Why 'tis not amisse Pompey: farewell: goe say I sent thee thither: for debt Pompey? Or how?

Elb.
For being a baud, for being a baud.

Luc.
Well, then imprison him: If imprisonment be the due of a baud, why 'tis his right. Baud is he doubt lesse, and of antiquity too: Baud borne. Farwell good Pompey: Commend me to the prison Pompey, you will turne good husband now Pompey, you will keepe the house.

Clo.
I hope Sir, your good Worship wil be my baile?

Luc.
No indeed wil I not Pompey, it is not the wear: I will pray (Pompey) to encrease your bondage if you take it not patiently: Why, your mettle is the more: Adieu trustie Pompey. Blesse you Friar.

Duke.
And you.

Luc.
Do's Bridget paint still, Pompey? Ha?

Elb.
Come your waies sir, come.

Clo.
You will not baile me then Sir?

Luc.
Then Pompey, nor now: what newes abroad Frier? What newes?

Elb.
Come your waies sir, come.

Luc.
Goe to kennell (Pompey) goe: What newes Frier of the Duke?

Duke.
I know none: can you tell me of any?

Luc.
Some say he is with the Emperor of Russia: other some, he is in Rome: but where is he thinke you?

Duke.
I know not where: but wheresoeuer, I wish him well.

Luc.
It was a mad fantastical tricke of him to steale from the State, and vsurpe the beggerie hee was neuer borne to: Lord Angelo Dukes it well in his absence: he puts transgression too't.

Duke.
He do's well in't.

Luc.
A little more lenitie to Lecherie would doe no harme in him: Something too crabbed that way, *Frier.
Duk.*
It is too general a vice, and severitie must cure it.

Luc.
Yes in good sooth, the vice is of a great kindred;
it is well allied, but it is impossible to extirpe it quite,
Frier, till eating and drinking be put downe. They say this Angelo vvas not made by Man and Woman, after this downe-right way of Creation: is it true, thinke you?

Duke.
How should he be made then?

Luc.
Some report, a Sea-maid spawn'd him. Some, that he vvas begot betweene two Stock-fishes. But it is certaine, that when he makes water, his Vrine is con genal'd ice, that I know to bee true: and he is a motion generative, that's infallible.

Duke.
You are pleasant sir, and speake apace.

Luc.
Why, what a ruthlesse thing is this in him, for the rebellion of a Cod-peece, to take away the life of a man? Would the Duke that is absent haue done this? Ere he would haue hang'd a man for the getting a hun dred Bastards, he vvould haue paide for the Nursing a thousand. He had some feeling of the sport, hee knew the seruice, and that instructed him to mercie.

Duke.
I neuer heard the absent Duke much detected for Women, he was not enclin'd that vvay.

Luc.
Oh Sir, you are deceiu'd.

Duke.
'Tis not possible.

Luc.
Who, not the Duke? Yes, your beggar of fifty:
and his vse was, to put a ducket in her Clack-dish; the Duke had Crochets in him. Hee would be drunke too, that let me informe you.

Duke.
You do him wrong, surely.

Luc.
Sir, I was an inward of his: a shie fellow was the Duke, and I believe I know the cause of his with drawing.

Duke.
What (I prethee) might be the cause?

Luc.
No, pardon: 'Tis a secret must be lockt with in the teeth and the lippes: but this I can let you understand, the greater file of the subject held the Duke to be wise.

Duke.
Wise? Why no question but he was.

Luc.
A very superficial, ignorant, vnweighing fellow

Duke.
Either this is Enuie in you, Folly, or mistaking: The very streame of his life, and the businesse he hath helmed, must upon a warranted neede, give him a better proclamation. Let him be but testimonied in his owne bringings forth, and he shall appeare to the envious, a Scholler, a Statesman, and a Soldier: therefore you speake vnskilfully: or, if your knowledge bee more, it is much darkned in your malice.

G Luc.

Luc.
Sir, I know him, and I loue him.

Duke.
Loue talkes with better knowledge, & knowledge with deare loue.

Luc.
Come Sir, I know what I know.

Duke.
I can hardly believe that, since you know not what you speake. But if euer the Duke returne (as our praiers are he may) let mee desire you to make your answere before him: if it bee honest you haue spoke, you haue courage to maintaine it; I am bound to call vpon you, and I pray you your name?

Luc.
Sir my name is Lucio, well known to the Duke.

Duke.
He shall know you better Sir, if I may live to report you.

Luc.
I feare you not.

Duke.
O, you hope the Duke will returne no more: or you imagine me to vnhurtfull an opposite: but indeed
I can doe you little harme: You'll for-sware this a gaine?

Luc.
Ile be hang'd first: Thou art deceiu'd in mee Friar.
But no more of this: Canst thou tell if Claudio die to morrow, or no?

Duke.
Why should he die Sir?

Luc.
Why? For filling a bottle with a Tunne-dish:
I would the Duke we talke of were return'd againe: this vngenitur'd Agent will vn-people the Prouince with Continencie. Sparrowes must not build in his house-eues, because they are lecherous: The Duke yet would have darke deeds darkelie answered, hee would neuer bring them to light: would hee were return'd. Marrie this Claudio is condemned for vntrussing. Farwell good Friar, I prethee pray for me: The Duke (I say to thee again) would eate Mutton on Fridaies. He's now past it, yet (and I say to thee) hee would mouth with a beg gar, though she smelt browne-bread and Garlick: say that I said so: Farewell.

Exit.

Duke.
No might, nor greatnesse in mortality
Can censure scape: Back-wounding calumnie
The whitest vertue strikes. What King so strong,
Can tie the gall vp in the slanderous tong?
But who comes heere?

Enter Escalus, Prouost, and Bawd.

Esc.
Go, away with her to prison.

Bawd.
Good my Lord be good to mee, your Honor is accounted a mercifull man: good my Lord.

Esc.
Double, and trebble admonition, and still for feite in the same kinde? This would make mercy sweare and play the Tirant.

Pro.
A Bawd of eleuen yeares continuance, may it please your Honor.

Bawd.
My Lord, this is one Lucio's information a gainst me, Mistris Kate Keepe-downe was with childe by him in the Dukes time, he promis'd her marriage: his Childe is a yeere and a quarter olde come Philip and la cob: I haue kept it my selfe; and see how hee goes about to abuse me.

Esc.
That fellow is a fellow of much License: Let him be call'd before vs, Away with her to prison: Goe too, no more words. Prouost, my Brother Angelo will not be alter'd, Claudio must die to morrow: Let him be furnish'd with Diuines, and haue all charitable preparation. If my brother wrought by my pitie, it should not be so with him.

Pro.
So please you, this Friar hath beene with him, and aduis'd him for th' entertainment of death.

Esc.
Good'euen, good Father.

Duke.
Blisse, and goodnesse on you.

Esc.
Of whence are you?

Duke.
Not of this Countrie, though my chance is now To vse it for my time: I am a brother Of gracious Order, late come from the Sea, In speciall businesse from his Holinesse.

Esc.
What newes abroad i'th World?

Duke.
None, but that there is so great a Feauor on goodnesse, that the dissolution of it must cure it. No ueltie is onely in request, and as it is as dangerous to be aged in any kinde of course, as it is vertuous to be constant in any vndertaking. There is scarce truth enough alive to make Societies secure, but Securitie enough to make Fellowships accurst: Much vpon this riddle runs the wisedome of the world. This newes is old enough, yet it is euerie daies newes. I pray you Sir, of what disposition was the Duke?

Esc.
One, that aboue all other strifes, Contended especially to know himselfe.

Duke.
What pleasure was he giuen to?

Esc.
Rather reioycing to see another merry, then merrie at anie thing which profest to make him reioice. A Gentleman of all temperance. But leaue wee him to his euvets, with a praier they may proue prosperous, & let me desire to know, how you finde Claudio prepar'd? I am made to vnderstand, that you haue lent him visita tion.

Duke.
He professes to haue receiued no sinister mea sure from his Iudge, but most willingly humbles him selfe to the determination of Iustice: yet had he framed to himselfe (by the instruction of his frailty) manie de ceyuing promises of life, which I (by my good leisure) haue discredited to him, and now is he resolu’d to die.

Esc.
You haue paid the heauens your Function, and the prisoner the verie debt of your Calling. I haue la bour’d for the poore Gentleman, to the extremest shore of my modestie, but my brother-Iustice haue I found so seuere, that he hath forc’d me to tell him, hee is indeede Iustice.

Duke.
If his owne life, Answere the straitnesse of his proceeding, It shall become him well: wherein if he chance to faile he hath sentenc’d himselfe.

Esc.
I am going to visit the prisoner, Fare you well.

Duke.
Peace be with you.

He who the sword of Heauen will beare,
Should be as holy, as seueare:
Patterne in himselfe to know,
Grace to stand, and Vertue go:
More, nor lesse to others paying,
Then by selfe-offences weighing.
Shame to him, whose cruell striking,
Kils for faults of his owne liking:
Twice treble shame on Angelo,
To vveede my vice, and let his grow.
Oh, what may Man within him hide,
Though Angel on the outward side?
How may likenesse made in crimes,
Making practise on the Times,
To draw with ydle Spiders strings
Most ponderous and substantiall things?
Craft against vice, I must applie.
With Angelo to night shall lye
His old betroathed (but despised:)
So disguise shall by th'disguised
Pay with falshood, false exacting,
And performe an olde contracting.

Exit.

Actus Quartus, Scœna prima.

[Act 4, Scene 1]
[Page 75]
Measure for Measure.

Enter Mariana, and Boy singing.

Song.
Take, oh take those lips away,
that so sweetly were forsworne,
And those eyes: the breake of day
Lights that doe mislead the Morne;
But my kisses bring againe, bring againe,
Seales of love, but seal'd in vaine, seal'd in vaine.

Enter Duke.

Mar.
Breake off thy song, and haste thee quick away,
Here comes a man of comfort, whose advice
Hath often still'd my brawling discontent.
I cry you mercy, Sir, and well could wish
You had not found me here so musicall.
Let me excuse me, and believe me so,
My mirth it much displeas'd, but pleas'd my woe.

Duk.
'Tis good; though Musick oft hath such a charm
To make bad, good; and good prouoke to harm.
I pray you tell me, hath any body enquir'd for mee here to day; much uppon this time haue I promis'd here to meete.

Mar.
You have not bin enquir'd after: I haue sat here all day.

Enter Isabell.

Duk.
I doe constantly believe you: the time is come euen now. I shall crave your forbearance a little, may be
I will call vpon you anone for some advantage to your selfe.

Mar.
I am always bound to you.

Exit.

Duk.
Very well met, and well come:
What is the newes from this good Deputie?

Isab.
He hath a Garden circummur'd with Bricke,
Whose westerne side is with a Vineyard back't;
And to that Vineyard is a planched gate,
That makes his opening with this bigger Key:
This other doth command a little doore,
Which from the Vineyard to the Garden leads,
There haue I made my promise, vpon the Heavy middle of the night, to call vpon him.

Duk.
But shall you on your knowledge find this way?

Isab.
I haue t'ane a due, and wary note vpon't,
With whispering, and most guiltie diligence,
In action all of precept, he did show me
The way twice ore.

Duk.
Are there no other tokens
Betweene you 'greed, concerning her obseruance?

Isab.
No: none but onely a repaire ith'darke,
And that I haue possesst him, my most stay
Can be but briefe: for I haue made him know,
I haue a Seruant comes with me along
That staies vpon me; whose perswasion is,
I come about my Brother.

Duk.
'Tis well borne vp.
I haue not yet made knowne to Mariana

Enter Mariana.

A word of this: what hoa, within; come forth,
I pray you be acquainted with this Maid,
She comes to doe you good.

Isab.
I doe desire the like.

Duk.
Do you perswade your selfe that I respect you?

Mar.
Good Frier, I know you do, and haue found it.

Duke.
Take then this your companion by the hand
Who hath a storie readie for your eare:
I shall attend your leisure, but make haste
The vaporous night approaches.

Mar.
Wilt please you walke aside.

Exit.

Duke.
Oh Place, and greatnes: millions of false eies
Are stucke vpon thee: volumes of report
Run with these false, and most contrarious Quest
Vpon thy doings: thousand escapes of wit
Make thee the father of their idle dreame,
And racke thee in their fancies. Wel come, how agreed?

Enter Mariana and Isabella.

Isab.
Shee'll take the enterprize vpon her father,
If you advise it.

Duke.
It is not my consent,
But my entreaty too.

Isa.
Little haue you to say
When you depart from him, but soft and low,
Remember now my brother.

Mar.
Feare me not.

Duk.
Nor gentle daughter, feare you not at all:
He is your husband on a pre-contract:
To bring you thus together 'tis no sinne,
Sith that the Iustice of your title to him
Doth flourish the deceit. Come, let vs goe,
Our Corne's to reape, for yet our Tithes to sow.
Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.
[Act 4, Scene 2]

_Pro._
Come hither sirha; can you cut off a mans head?

_Clo._
If the man be a Bachelor Sir, I can:
But if he be a married man, he's his wiues head,
And I can neuer cut off a womans head.

_Pro._
Come sir, leaue me your snatches, and yeeld mee a direct answere. To morrow morning are to die _Clau dio_ and _Barnardine_; heere is in our prison a common exe cutioner, who in his office lacks a helper, if you will take it on you to assist him, it shall redeeme you from your Gyues: if not, you shall haue your full time of imprison ment, and your deliuerance with an unpittied whipping;
for you haue beene a notorious bawd.

_Clo._
Sir, I haue beene an unlawfull bawd, time out of minde, but yet I will bee content to be a lawfull hang man: I would bee glad to receiue some instruction from my fellow partner.

_Pro._
What hoa, _Abhorson_; where's _Abhorson_ there?

_Enter Abhorson._

_Abh._
Doe you call sir?

_Pro._
Sirha, here's a fellow will helpe you to morrow in your execution: if you thinke it meet, compound with him by the yeere, and let him abide here with you, if not, vse him for the present, and dismisse him, hee cannot plead his estimation with you: he hath beene a Bawd.

_Abh._
A Bawd Sir? fie vpon him, he will discredit our mysterie.

_Pro._
Goe too Sir, you waigh equallie: a feather will turne the Scale.

_Exit._

_Clo._
Pray sir, by your good favor: for surely sir, a good favor you have, but that you have a hanging look:
Doe you call sir, your occupation a Mysterie?

G2Abb. I,

Measure for Measure.

Abh.
I Sir, a Misterie.

Clo.
Painting Sir, I have heard say, is a Misterie; and your Whores sir, being members of my occupation, v sing painting, do proue my Occupation, a Misterie: but what Misterie there should be in hanging, if I should be hang'd, I cannot imagine.

Abh.
Sir, it is a Misterie.

Clo.
Proofe.

Abh.
Euerie true mans apparrell fits your Theefe.

Clo.
If it be too little for your theefe, your true man thinkes it bigge enough. If it bee too bigge for your Theefe, your Theefe thinkes it little enough: So euerie ture mans apparrell fits your Theefe.

Enter Provost.

Pro.
Are you agreed?

Clo.
Sir, I will serue him: For I do finde your Hang man is a more penitent Trade then your Bawd: he doth oftner aske forgienessee

Pro.
You sirrah, prouide your blocke and your Axe to morrow, foure a clocke.

Abh.
Come on (Bawd) I will instruct thee in my Trade: follow.

Clo.
I do desire to learne sir: and I hope, if you haue occasion to use me for your owne turne, you shall finde me y'are. For truly sir, for your kindnesse, I owe you a good turne.

Exit.

Pro.
Call hether Barnardine and Claudio:
Th'one has my pitie; not a iot the other,
Being a Murtherer, though he were my brother.

Enter Claudio.

Looke, here's the Warrant Claudio, for thy death,
'Tis now dead midnight, and by eight to morrow
Thou must be made immortall. Where's Barnardine?

Cla.
As fast lock'd vp in sleepe, as guiltlesse labour,
When it lies starkely in the Trauellers bones,
He will not wake.

Pro.
Who can do good on him?
Well, go, prepare your selfe. But harke, what noise?
Heauen giue your spirits comfort: by, and by,
I hope it is some pardon, or repreeue
For the most gentle Claudio. Welcome Father.

Enter Duke.

Duke.
The best, and wholsomst spirits of the night,
Inuelpop you, good Prouost: who call'd heere of late?

Pro.
None since the Curphew rung.

Duke.
Not Isabell?

Pro.
No.

Duke.
They will then er't be long.

Pro.
What comfort is for Claudio?

Duke.
There's some in hope.

Pro.
It is a bitter Deputie.

Duke.
Not so, not so: his life is paralel'd
Euen with the stroke and line of his great Iustice:
He doth with holie abstinence subdue
That in himselfe, which he spurre on his powre
To qualifie in others: were he meal'd with that
Which he corrects, then were he tirannous,
But this being so, he's iust. Now are they come.
This is a gentle Prouost, sildome when
The steeled Gaoler is the friend of men:
How now? what noise? That spirit's possest with hast,
That wounds th'vnsisting Posterne with these strokes.

Pro.
There he must stay vntil the Officer
Arise to let him in: he is call'd vp.

Duke.
Haue you no countermand for Claudio yet?
But he must die to morrow?

Pro.
None Sir, none.

Duke.
As neere the dawning Prouost, as it is,
You shall heare more ere Morning.

Pro.
Happely
You something know: yet I beleue there comes
No countermand: no such example haue we:
Besides, vpon the verie siege of Justice,
Lord Angelo hath to the publike eare
Profest the contrarie.

Enter a Messenger.

Duke.
This is his Lords man.
Pro.
And heere comes Claudio's pardon.
Mess.
My Lord hath sent you this note,
And by mee this further charge;
That you swerue not from the smallest Article of it,
Neither in time, matter, or other circumstance.
Good morrow: for as I take it, it is almost day.
Pro.
I shall obey him.

Duke.
This is his Pardon purchas'd by such sin,
For which the Pardoner himselfe is in:
Hence hath offence his quicke celeritie,
When it is borne in high Authority.
When Vice makes Mercie; Mercie's so extended,
That for the faults loue, is th'offender friended.
Now Sir, what newes?

Pro.
I told you:
Lord Angelo (be-like) thinking me remisse
In mine Office, awakens mee
With this vnwonted putting on, methinks strangely:
For he hath not vs'd it before.
Duke.
Pray you let's heare.

The Letter.
Whatsoever you may heare to the contrary, let Claudio be executed by foure of the clocke, and in the afternoone Bernardine: For my better satisfaction, let mee haue Claudios head sent me by five. Let this be duly performed with a thought that more depends on it, then we must yet deliver. Thus faile not to doe your Office, as you will answere it at your perill.
What say you to this Sir?
Duke.
What is that Bernardine, who is to be executed in th'afternoone?
Pro.
A Bohemian borne: But here nurst vp & bred,
One that is a prisoner nine yeeres old.

Duke.
How came it, that the absent Duke had not either deliuer’d him to his libertie, or executed him? I haue heard it was euer his manner to do so.

Pro.
His friends still wrought Repreeues for him: And indeed his fact till now in the gouernment of Lord Angelo, came not to an vndoubtfull proofe.

Duke.
It is now apparant?

Pro.
Most manifest, and not denied by himself.

Duke.
Hath he borne himselfe penitently in prison? How seemes he to be touch'd?

Pro.
A man that apprehends death no more dread fully, but as a drunken sleepe, carelesse, wreaklesse, and fearelesse of what's past, present, or to come: insensible of mortality, and desperately mortall.

Duke.
He wants aduice.

Pro.
He wil heare none: he hath euermore had the li berty of the prison: give him leaue to escape hence, hee would not. Drunke many times a day, if not many daies entirely drunke. We haue verie oft awak'd him, as if to carrie him to execution, and shew'd him a seeming war rant for it, it hath not moued him at all.

Duke.
Measure for Measure.

Duke.
More of him anon: There is written in your brow Prouost, honesty and constancie; if I reade it not truly, my ancient skill beguiles me: but in the boldnes of my cunning, I will lay my selfe in hazard: Claudio, whom heere you haue warrant to execute, is no greater forfeit to the Law, then Angelo who hath sentenc’d him. To make you vnderstand this in a manifested effect, I craue but foure daies respit: for the which, you are to do me both a present, and a dangerous courtesie.

Pro.
Pray Sir, in what?

Duke.
In the delaying death.

Pro.
Alacke, how may I do it? Hauing the houre li mited, and an expresse command, vnder penaltie, to de liuer his head in the view of Angelo? I may make my case as Claudio's, to crosse this in the smallest.

Duke.
By the vow of mine Order, I warrant you,
If my instructions may be your guide,
Let this Barnardine be this morning executed,
And his head borne to Angelo.

Pro.
Angelo hath seene them both,
And will discover the fauour.

Duke.
Oh, death's a great disguiser, and you may adde to it; Shaue the head, and tie the beard, and say it was the desire of the penitent to be so bar'de before his death: you know the course is common. If any thing fall to you vpon this, more then thankes and good for tune, by the Saint whom I professe, I will plead against it with my life.

Pro.
Pardon me, good Father, it is against my oath.

Duke.
Were you sworne to the Duke, or to the De putie?

Pro.
To him, and to his Substitutes.

Duke.
You will thinke you haue made no offence, if the Duke auouch the iustice of your dealing?

Pro.
But what likelihood is in that?

Duke.
Not a resemblance, but a certainty; yet since I see you fearfull, that neither my coate, integrity, nor perswasion, can with ease attempt you, I wil go further then I meant, to plucke all feares out of you. Looke you Sir, heere is the hand and Seale of the Duke: you know the Charracter I doubt not, and the Signet is not strange to you?

Pro.
I know them both.

Duke.
The Contents of this, is the returne of the Duke; you shall anon ouer-reade it at your pleasure: where you shall finde within these two daies, he wil be heere. This is a thing that Angelo knowes not, for hee this very day receuues letters of strange tenor, perchance of the Dukes death, perchance entering into some Monasterie, but by chance nothing of what is writ. Looke, th' unfolding Starre calles vp the Shepheard; put not your selfe into amazement, how these things should be; all difficulties are but easie when they are knowne. Call your executioner, and off with Barnardines head: I will give him a present shrift, and advise him for a better place. Yet you are amaz’d, but this shall absolutely resolute you: Come away, it is almost cleere dawne.

Exit.

Scena Tertia.
[Act 4, Scene 3]

Enter Clowne.

Clo.
I am as well acquainted here, as I was in our house of profession: one would think it weree Mistris Ouer-dons owne house, for here be manie of her olde Customers. First, here’s yong Mr Rash, hee’s in for a commoditie of browne paper, and olde Ginger, nine score and seventeene pounds, of which hee made fiue Markes readie money: marrie then, Ginger was not much in request, for the olde Women were all dead. Then is there here one Mr Caper, at the suite of Master Three-Pile the Mercer, for some foure suits of Peach-colour’d Satten, which now peaches him a beggar. Then haue we here, yong Dizie, and yong Mr Deepe-van, and Mr Copperspurre, and Mr Starne-Lackey the Rapier and dagger man, and yong Drop-beire that kild lustie Pudding, and Mr Forthlight the Tilter, and braue Mr Shootie the great Traueller, and wilde Halfe-Canne that stabb’d Pots, and I thinke fortie more, all great doers in our Trade, and are now for the Lords sake.

Enter Abhorsen.

Abh.
Sirrah, bring Barnardine hether.

Clo.
Mr Barnardine, you must rise and be hang’d,
Mr Barnardine.

Abh.
What hoa Barnardine.
Barnardine within.

Bar.
A pox o’your throats: who makes that noyse there? What are you?

Clo.
Your friends Sir, the Hangman:
You must be so good Sir to rise, and be put to death.

Bar.
Away you Rogue, away, I am sleepie.

Abh.
Tell him he must awake,
And that quickly too.

Clo.
Pray Master Barnardine, awake till you are executed, and sleepe afterwards.
Ab.
Go in to him, and fetch him out.

Clo.
He is comming Sir, he is comming: I heare his Straw russle.

Enter Barnardine.

Abh.
Is the Axe vpon the blocke, sirrah?

Clo.
Verie readie Sir.

Bar.
How now Abhorson?
What's the newes vvith you?

Abh.
Truly Sir, I would desire you to clap into your prayers: for looke you, the Warrants come.

Bar.
You Rogue, I haue bin drinking all night, I am not fitted for't.

Clo.
Oh, the better Sir: for he that drinkes all night, and is hanged betimes in the morning, may sleepe the sounder all the next day.

Enter Duke.

Abh.
Looke you Sir, heere comes your ghostly Fa ther: do we iest now thinke you?

Duke.
Sir, induced by my charitie, and hearing how hastily you are to depart, I am come to advise you, Comfort you, and pray with you.

Bar.
Friar, not I: I haue bin drinking hard all night, and I will haue more time to prepare mee, or they shall beat out my braines with billets: I will not consent to die this day, that's certaine.

Duke.
Oh sir, you must: and therefore I beseech you Looke forward on the iournie you shall go.

Bar.
I sweare I will not die to day for anie mans per swasion.

Duke.
But heare you:

Bar.
Not a word: if you haue anie thing to say to me, come to my Ward: for thence will not I to day.

Exit.

Enter Provost.

Duke.
Vnfit to liue, or die: oh grauell heart.
Measure for Measure.

After him (Fellowes) bring him to the blocke.

Pro.
Now Sir, how do you finde the prisoner?

Duke.
A creature vnpre-par'd, vnmeet for death,
And to transport him in the minde he is,
Were damnable.

Pro.
Heere in the prison, Father,
There died this morning of a cruell Feauor,
One Ragozine, a most notorious Pirate,
A man of Claudio's yeares: his beard, and head
Just of his colour. What if we do omit
This Reprobate, til he were wel enclin'd,
And satisfie the Deputie with the visage
Of Ragozine, more like to Claudio?

Duke.
Oh, 'tis an accident that heauen prouides:
Dispatch it presently, the houre drawes on Prefixt by Angelo. See this be done,
And sent according to command, whiles I
Perswade this rude wretch willingly to die.

Pro.
This shall be done (good Father) presently:
But Barnardine must die this afternoone,
And how shall we continue Claudio,
To saue me from the danger that might come,
If he were knowne aliue?

Duke.
Let this be done,
Put them in secret holds, both Barnardine and Claudio,
Ere twice the Sun hath made his iournall greeting
To yond generation, you shal finde
Your safetie manifested.

Pro.
I am your free dependant.

Exit.

Duke.
Quicke, dispatch, and send the head to Angelo
Now wil I write Letters to Angelo,
(The Prouost he shall beare them) whose contents
Shal witnesse to him I am neere at home:
And that by great Iniunctions I am bound
To enter publikely: him Ile desire
To meet me at the consecrated Fount,
A League below the Citie: and from thence,
By cold gradation, and weale-ballanc'd forme.
We shal proceed with Angelo.

Enter Prouost.

Pro.
Heere is the head, Ile carrie it my selfe.

Duke.
Conuenient is it: Make a swift returne,
For I would commune with you of such things,
That want no eare but yours.

Pro.
Ile make all speede.

Exit.

Isabell within.

Duke.
Isabell hoa, be heere.

Isa.
The tongue of Isabell. She's come to know,
If yet her brothers pardon be come hither:
But I will keepe her ignorant of her good,
To make her heauenly comforts of dispaire,
When it is least expected.

Enter Isabella.

Duke.
Isa. by your leaue.

Isa.
Good morning to you, faire, and gracious daughter.

Duke.
The better giuen me by so holy a man,
Hath yet the Deputie sent my brothers pardon?

Isa.
He hath releasd him, Isabell, from the world,
His head is off, and sent to Angelo.

Isa.
Nay, but it is not so.

Duke.
It is no other,
Shew your wisedome daughter in your close patience.

Isa.
Oh, I wil to him, and plucke out his eies.

Duke.
You shal not be admitted to his sight.

Isa.
Vnhappie Claudio, wretched Isabell,
Iniurious world, most damned Angelo.

Duke.
This nor hurts him, nor profits you a iot,
Forbeare it therefore, giue your cause to heauen.
Marke what I say, which you shal finde
By euery sillable a faithful veritie.
The Duke comes home to morrow: nay drie your eyes,
One of our Couent, and his Confessor
Giates me this instance: Already he hath carried
Notice to Escalus and Angelo,
Who do prepare to meete him at the gates,
There to give up their powre: If you can pace your wise dome,
In that good path that I would wish it go,
And you shall have your bosom on this wretch,
Grace of the Duke, revenges to your heart,
And general Honor.

Isa.
I am directed by you.

Duk.
This Letter then to Friar Peter give,
'Tis that he sent me of the Dukes returne:
Say, by this token, I desire his companie
At Mariana's house to night. Her cause, and yours
I'll perfect him withall, and he shall bring you
Before the Duke; and to the head of Angelo
Accuse him home and home. For my poor selfe,
I am combined by a sacred Vow,
And shall be absent. Send you with this Letter:
Command these fretting waters from your eyes
With a light heart; trust not my holy Order
If I pervert your course: whose here?

Enter Lucio.

Luc.
Good'even;
Frier, where's the Provost?

Duke.
Not within Sir.

Luc.
Oh prettie Isabella, I am pale at mine heart, to see thine eyes so red: thou must be patient; I am faine to dine and sup with water and bran: I dare not for my head fill my belly. One fruitful Meale would set me too't: but they say the Duke will be here to Morrow.
By my troth Isabella I loved thy brother, if the olde fantastical Duke of darke corners had been at home, he had liued.

Duke.
Sir, the Duke is maruellous little beholding to your reports, but the best is, he liues not in them.

Luc.
Friar, thou knowest not the Duke so wel as I do: he's a better woodman then thou tak'st him for.

Duke.
Well: you'll answer this one day. Fare ye well.

Luc.
Nay tarrie, I'll go along with thee,
I can tel thee pretty tales of the Duke.

Duke.
You have told me too many of him already Sir
if they be true: if not true, none were enough.

Lucio.
I was once before him for getting a Wench with childe.

Duke.
Did you such a thing?

Luc.
Yes marrie did I; but I was faine to forswear it,
They would else haue married me to the rotten Medler.

Duke.
Sir your company is fairer then honest, rest you well.

Lucio.
By my troth Ile go with thee to the lanes end:
if baudy talke offend you, wee'l haue very little of it: nay Friar, I am a kind of Burr, I shal sticke.

Exeunt

Scena Quarta.

[Act 4, Scene 4]

Esc.
Euery Letter he hath writ, hath disuouch'd other.

Ang.
Page 79

Measure for Measure.

An.
In most vneuen and distracted manner, his actions show much like to madnesse, pray heauen his wisedome bee not tainted: and why meet him at the gates and re liuer ou rauthorities there?

Esc.
I ghesse not.

Ang.
And why should wee proclaime it in an howre before his entring, that if any craue redresse of iniustice, they should exhibit their petitions in the street?

Esc.
He showes his reason for that: to haue a dispatch of Complaints, and to deliuer vs from deuices heere after, which shall then haue no power to stand against vs.

Ang.
Well: I beseech you let it bee proclaim’d be times i’th’ morne, Ile call you at your house: giue notice to such men of sort and suite as are to meete him.

Esc.
I shall sir: fareyouwell.

Exit.

Ang.
Good night.

This deede vnshapes me quite, makes me vnpregnant
And dull to all proceedings. A deflowred maid,
And by an eminent body, that enforc'd
The Law against it? But that her tender shame
Will not proclaime against her maiden losse,
How might she tongue me? yet reason dares her no,
For my Authority beares of a credent bulke,
That no particular scandall once can touch
But it confounds the breather. He should haue liu'd, Saue that his riotous youth with dangerous sense
Might in the times to come haue ta'ne reuenge
By so receiuing a dishonor'd life
With ransome of such shame: would yet he had liued.
Alack, when once our grace we haue forgot,
Nothing goes right, we would, and we would not.
Exit.

Scena Quinta.
[Act 4, Scene 5]

Enter Duke and Frier Peter.

Duke.
These Letters at fit time deliuer me,
The Prouost knowes our purpose and our plot,
The matter being a foote, keepe your instruction
And hold you euer to our speciall drift,;
Though sometimes you doe blench from this to that
As cause doth minister: Goe call at Flania's house,
And tell him where I stay: giue the like notice
To Valencius, Rowland, and to Crassus,
And bid them bring the Trumpets to the gate:
But send me Flanius first.

Peter.
It shall be speeded well.

Enter Varrius.

Duke.
I thank thee Varrius, thou hast made good hast,
Come, we will walke: There's other of our friends
Will greet vs heere anon: my gentle Varrius.
Exeunt.

Scena Sexta.
[Act 4, Scene 6]

Enter Isabella and Mariana.

Isab.
To speake so indirectly I am loath,
I would say the truth, but to accuse him so
That is your part, yet I am aduis'd to doe it,
He saies, to vaile full purpose.

Mar.
Be rul'd by him.

Isab.
Besides he tells me, that if peraduenture
He speake against me on the aduerse side,
I should not thinke it strange, for 'tis a physicke
That's bitter, to sweet end.

Enter Peter.

Mar.
I would Frier Peter

Isab.
Oh peace, the Frier is come.

Peter.
Come I haue found you out a stand most fit,
Where you may haue such vantage on the Duke
He shall not passe you:
Twice haue the Trumpets sounded.
The generous, and grauest Citizens
Haue hent the gates, and very neere vpon
The Duke is entring:
Therefore hence away.

Exeunt.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

[Act 5, Scene 1]

Enter Duke, Uarrius, Lords, Angelo, Esculus, Lucio,
Citiens at severall doores.

Duk.
My very worthy Cosen, fairely met,
Our old, and faithfull friend, we are glad to see you.

Ang. Esc.
Happy returne be to your royall grace.

Duk.
Many and harty thankings to you both:
We haue made enquiry of you, and we heare
Such goodnesse of your Iustice, that our soule
Cannot but yeeld you forth to publique thankes
Forerunning more requitall.

Ang.
You make my bonds still greater.

Duk.
Oh your desert speaks loud, & I should wrong it
To locke it in the wards of couert bosome
When it deserues with characters of brasse
A forted residence 'gainst the tooth of time,
And razure of obliuion: Giue we your hand
And let the Subiect see, to make them know
That outward curtesies would faine proclaime
Fauours that keepe within: Come Escalus,
You must walke by vs, on our other hand:
Andgood supporters are you.

Enter Peter and Isabella.

Peter.
Now is your time
Speake loud, and kneele before him.

Isab.
Iustice, O royall Duke, vaile your regard
Vpon a wrong'd (I would faine haue said a Maid)
Oh worthy Prince, dishonor not your eye
By throwing it on any other object,
Till you haue heard me, in my true complaint,
And giuen me Justice, Justice, Justice, Justice.

Duk.
Relate your wrongs;
In what, by whom? be briefe:
Here is Lord Angelo shall giue you Justice,
Reveale your selfe to him.

Isab.
Oh worthy Duke,
You bid me seek redemption of the diuell,
Hear me your selfe: for that which I must speake
Must either punish me, not being beleu'd,
Or wring redresse from you:
Hear me: oh hear me, heere.

Ang.
My Lord, her wits I feare me are not firme:
She hath bin a suitor to me, for her Brother
Cut off by course of Justice.

Isab.
By course of Justice.

Ang.
And she will speake most bitterly, and strange.

Isab. Most

Measure for Measure.

Isab.
Most strange: but yet most truely wil I speake,
That Angelo's forsworne, is it not strange?
That Angelo's a murtherer, is't not strange?
That Angelo is an adulterous thiefe,
An hypocrite, a virgin violator,
Is it not strange? and strange?

Duke.
Nay it is ten times strange?

Isa.
It is not truer he is Angelo,
Then this is all as true, as it is strange;
Nay, it is ten times true, for truth is truth
To th' end of reckning.

Duke.
Away with her: poore soule
She speaks this, in th'infirmity of sence.

Isa.
Oh Prince, I conjure thee, as thou beleu'st
There is another comfort, then this world,
That thou neglect me not, with that opinion
That I am touch'd with madnesse: make not impossible
That which but seemes unlike, 'tis not impossible
But one, the wickedst caitiff on the ground
May seeme as shie, as graue, as iust, as absolute:
As Angelo, euen so may Angelo
In all his dressing, caracts, titles, formes,
Be an arch-villaine: Beleeue it, royall Prince
If he be lesse, he's nothing, but he's more,
Had I more name for badnesse.

Duke.
By mine honesty
If she be mad, as I beleeue no other,
Her madnesse hath the oddest frame of sense,
Such a dependancy of thing, on thing,
As ere I heard in madnesse.

Isab.
Oh gracious Duke
Harpe not on that; nor do not banish reason
For inequality, but let your reason serue
To make the truth appeare, where it seems hid,
And hide the false seemes true.

Duk.
Many that are not mad
Haue sure more lacke of reason:
What would you say?

Isab.
I am the Sister of one Claudio,
Condemnd vpon the Act of Fornication
To loose his head, condemn'd by Angelo,
I, (in probation of a Sisterhood)
Was sent to by my Brother; one Lucio
As then the Messen ger.

Luc.
That's I, and't like your Grace:
I came to her from Claudio, and desir'd her,
To try her gracious fortune with Lord Angelo,
For her poore Brothers pardon.

Isab.
That's he indeede.

Duk.
You were not bid to speake.

Luc.
No, my good Lord,
Nor wish'd to hold my peace.

Duk.
I wish you now then,
Pray you take note of it: and when you haue
A businesse for your selfe: pray heauen you then
Be perfect.

Luc.
I warrant your honor.

Duk.
The warrant's for your selfe: take heede to't.
Isab.
This Gentleman told somewhat of my Tale.

Luc.
Right.

Duk.
It may be right, but you are i'the wrong
To speake before your time: proceed,

Isab.
I went
To this pernicious Caitiffe Deputie.

Duk.
That's somewhat madly spoken.

Isab.
Pardon it.
The phrase is to the matter.

Duke.
Mended againe: the matter: proceed.

Isab.
In briefe, to set the needlesse processe by:
How I perswaded, how I praid, and kneel'd,
How he refeld me, and how I replide
(For this was of much length) the vild conclusion
I now begin with griefe, and shame to vtter.
He would not, but by gift of my chaste body
To his concupiscible intemperate lust
Release my brother; and after much debatement,
My sisterly remorse, confutes mine honour,
And I did yeeld to him: But the next morne betimes,
His purpose surfetting, he sends a warrant
For my poore brothers head.

Duke.
This is most likely.

Isab.
Oh that it were as like as it i [...] true.

Duk.
By heauen (fond wretch) yu knowst not what thou (speak'st,
Or else thou art suborn'd against his honor
In hatefull practise: first his Integritie
Stands without blemish: next it imports no reason,
That with such vehemency he should pursue
Faults proper to himselfe: if he had so offended
He would haue waigh'd thy brother by himselfe,
And not haue cut him off: some one hath set you on:
Confesse the truth, and say by whose aduice
Thou cam'st heere to complaine.

Isab.
And is this all?
Then oh you blessed Ministers aboue
Keepe me in patience, and with ripened time
Vnfold the euill, which is heere wrapt vp
In countenance: heauen shield your Grace from woe,
As I thus wrong'd, hence vnbeleeued goe.

Duke.
I know you'ld faine be gone: An Officer:
To prison with her: Shall we thus permit
A blasting and a scandalous breath to fall,
On him so neere vs? This needs must be a practise;
Who knew of your intent and comming hither?

Isa.
One that I would were heere, Frier Lodowick.

Duk.
A ghostly Father, belike:
Who knowes that Lodowicke?

Luc.
My Lord, I know him, 'tis a medling Fryer,
I doe not like the man: had he been Lay my Lord,
For certaine words he spake against your Grace
In your retirment, I had swing'd him soundly.

Duke.
Words against mee? this 'a good Fryer belike
And to set on this wretched woman here
Against our Substitute: Let this Fryer be found.

Luc.
But yesternight my Lord, she and that Fryer
I saw them at the prison: a sawcy Fryar,
A very scuruy fellow.

Peter.
Blessed be your Royall Grace:
I haue stood by my Lord, and I haue heard
Your royall eare abus'd: first hath this woman
Most wrongfully accus'd your Substitute,
Who is as free from touch, or soyle with her
As she from one vngot.

Duke.
We did beleue no lesse.
Know you that Frier Lodowick that she speakes of?

Peter.
I know him for a man diuine and holy,
Not scuruy, nor a temporary medler
As he's reported by this Gentleman:
And on my trust, a man that neuer yet
Did (as he vouches) mis-report your Grace.

Luc.
My Lord, most villanously, beleue it.

Peter.
Well: he in time may come to cleere himselfe;
But at this instant he is sicke, my Lord:
Of Measure for Measure.

Of a strange Feauor: vpon his meere request
Being come to knowledge, that there was complaint
Intended 'gainst Lord Angelo, [...] I hether
To speake as from his mouth, what he doth know
Is true, and false: And what he with his oath
And all probation will make vp full cleare
Whensoeuer he's conuented: First for this woman,
To iustifie this worthy Noble man
So vulgarly and personally accus'd,
Her shall you heare disproued to her eyes,
Till she her selfe confesse it.

Duk.
Good Frier, let's heare it:
Doe you not smile at this, Lord Angelo?
Oh heauen, the vanity of wretched fooles.
Giue vs some seates, Come cosen Angelo,
In this I'll be impartiall: be you Iudge
Of your owne Cause: Is this the Witnes Frier?

Enter Mariana.

First, let her shew your face, and after, speake.

Mar.
Pardon my Lord, I will not shew my face
Vntill my husband bid me.

Duke.
What, are you married?

Mar.
No my Lord.

Duke.
Are you a Maid?

Mar.
No my Lord.

Duk.
A Widow then?

Mar.
Neither, my Lord.

Duk.
Why you are nothing then: neither Maid, Widow, nor Wife?

Luc.
My Lord, she may be a Puncke: for many of them, are neither Maid, Widow, nor Wife.

Duk.
Silence that fellow: I would he had some cause to prattle for himselfe.

Luc.
Well my Lord.

Mar.
My Lord, I doe confesse I nere was married,
And I confesse besides, I am no Maid,
I haue known my husband, yet my husband
Knowes not, that euer he knew me.

Luc.
He was drunk then, my Lord, it can be no better.
Duk.
For the benefit of silence, would thou wert so to.
Luc.
Well, my Lord.
Duk.
This is no witnesse for Lord Angelo.
Mar.
Now I come to't, my Lord.
Shee that accuses him of Fornication,
In selfe-same manner, doth accuse my husband,
And charges him, my Lord, with such a time,
When I'le depose I had him in mine Armes
With all th'effect of Loue.
Ang.
Charges she moe then me?
Mar.
Not that I know.
Duk.
No? you say your husband.
Mar.
Why iust, my Lord, and that is Angelo,
Who thinkes he knowes, that he nere knew my body,
But knows, he thinkes, that he knowes Isabell.
Ang.
This is a strange abuse: Let's see thy face.
Mar.
My husband bids me, now I will unmaske.
This is that face, thou cruel Angelo
Which once thou sworst, was worth the looking on:
This is the hand, which with a vowd contract
Was fast belockt in thine: This is the body
That tooke away the match from Isabell,
And did supply thee at thy garden-house
In her Imagin'd person.
Duke.
Know you this woman?
Luc.
Carnallie she saies.
Duk.
Sirha, no more.
Luc.
Enough my Lord.
Ang.
My Lord, I must confesse, I know this woman,
And five yeres since there was some speech of marriage
Betwixt my selfe, and her: which was broke off,
Partly for that her promis'd proportions
Came short of Composition: But in chiefe
For that her reputation was dis-valued
In leuitie: Since which time of five yeres
I neuer spake with her, saw her, nor heard from her
Vpon my faith, and honor.

Mar.
Noble Prince,
As there comes light from heauen, and words (frō) from breath,
As there is sence in truth, and truth in vertue,
I am affianced this mans wife, as strongly
As words could make vp vowes: And my good Lord,
But Tuesday night last gon, in's garden house [...]
He knew me as a wife. As this is true,
Let me in safety raise me from my knees,
Or else for euer be confixed here
A Marble Monument.

Ang.
I did but smile till now,
Now, good my Lord, giue me the scope of Iustice,
My patience here is touch'd: I doe perceiue
These poore informall women, are no more
But instruments of some more mightier member
That sets them on. Let me haue way, my Lord
To finde this practise out.

Duke.
I, with my heart,
And punish them to your height of pleasure.
Thou foolish Frier, and thou pernicious woman
Compact with her that's gone: thinkst thou, thy oathes,
Though they would swear downe each particular Saint,
Were testimonies against his worth, and credit
That's seald in approbation? you, Lord Escalus
Sit with my Cozen, lend him your kinde paines
To finde out this abuse, whence 'tis deriu'd.
There is another Frier that set them on,
Let him be sent for.

Peter.
Would he were here, my Lord, for he indeed
Hath set the women on to this Complaint;
Your Prouos knowes the place where he abides,
And he may fetch him.

Duke.
Goe, doe it instantly:
And you, my noble and well-warranted Cosen
Whom it concerns to heare this matter forth,
Doe with your injuries as seemes you best
In any chastisement; I for a while
Will leaue you; but stir not you till you haue
Well determin'd vpon these Slanderers.

Exit.

Esc.
My Lord, wee'll doe it throughly: Signior Lu *vin, did not you say you knew that Frier Lodowick to be a dishonest person?

Luc.
Cucullus non facit Monachum, honest in nothing but in his Clothes, and one that hath spoke most vil nous speeches of the Duke.

Esc.
We shall intreat you to abide heere till he come, and inforce them against him: we shall finde this Frier a notable fellow.

Luc.
As any in Vienna, on my word.

Esc.
Call that same Isabell here once againe, I would speake with her: pray you, my Lord, giue mee leave to question, you shall see how Ile handle her.

Luc.
Not better then he, by her owne report.

Esc.
Say you?

Luc.
Marry sir, I think, if you handled her priuately shee [Page 82]Measure for Measure.
She would sooner confesse, perchance publikely she'll be asham'd.

Enter Duke, Prouost, Isabella.

Esc.
I will goe darkely to worke with her.

Luc.
That's the way: for women are light at mid night.

Esc.
Come on Mistris, here's a Gentlewoman,
Denies all that you haue said.

Luc.
My Lord, here comes the rascal I spoke of,
Here, with the Prouost.

Esc.
In very good time: speake not you to him, till we call vpon you.

Luc.
Mum.

Esc.
Come Sir, did you set these women on to slan der the Lord Angelo? they haue confes'd you did.

Duk.
'Tis false.

Esc.
How? Know you where you are?

Duk.
Respect to your great place; and let the diuell
Be sometime honour'd, for his burning throne.
Where is the Duke? 'tis he should heare me speake.

Esc.
The Duke's in vs: and we will heare you speake,
Looke you speake iustly.

Duk.
Boldly, at least. But oh poore soules,
Come you to seeke the Lamb here of the Fox;
Good night to your redresse: Is the Duke gone?
Then is your cause gone too: The Duke's vniust,
Thus to retort your manifest Appeale,
And put your triall in the villaines mouth,
Which here you come to accuse.

Luc.
This is the rascall: this is he I spoke of.

Esc.
Why thou vnreuerend, and vnhalowed Fryer:
Is't not enough thou hast suborn'd these women,
To accuse this worthy man? but in foule mouth,
And in the witesse of his proper eare,
To call him villaine; and then to glance from him,
To th'Duke himsellfe, to taxe him with Iniustice?
Take him hence; to th' racke with him: we'll towze you
Ioynt by ioynt, but we will know his purpose:
What? vniust?

Duk.
Be not so hot: the Duke dare
No more stretch this finger of mine, then he Dare racke his owne: his Subiect am I not,
Nor here Prouinciall: My businesse in this State
Made me a looker on here in Vienna,
Where I haue seene corruption boyle and bubble,
Till it ore-run the Stew: Lawes, for all faults,
But faults so countenanc'd, that the strong Statutes
Stand like the forfeites in a Barbers shop,
As much in mocke, as marke.

Esc.
Slander to th'State:
Away with him to prison.

Ang.
What can you vouch against him Signior Lucio?
Is this the man you did tell vs of?

Luc.
'Tis he, my Lord: come hither goodman baldpate, doe you know me?

Duk.
I remember you Sir, by the sound of your voice,
I met you at the Prison, in the absence of the Duke.

Luc.
Oh, did you so? and do you remember what you said of the Duke.

Duk.
Most notedly Sir.
Do you so Sir: And was the Duke a flesh-mon ger, a foole, and a coward, as you then reported him to be?

Duk.
You must (Sir) change persons with me, ere you make that my report: you indeede spoke so of him, and much more, much worse.

Luc.
Oh thou damnable fellow: did I not plucke thee by the nose, for thy spe [...]

Duk.
I protest, I loue the Duke, as I loue my selfe.

Ang.
Harke how the villaine would close now, after his treasonable abuses.

Esc.
Such a fellow is not to be talk'd withall: Away with him to prison: Where is the Proost? away with him to prison: lay bolts enough vpon him: let him speak no more: away with those Giglets too, and with the o ther confederate companion.

Duk.
Stay Sir, stay a while.

Ang.
What, resists he? helpe him Lucio.

Luc.
Come sir, come sir, come sir: foh sir, why you bald-pated lying rascall: you must be hooded must you?
show your knaues visage with a poxe to you: show your sheepe-biting face, and be hang'd an houre: Will't not off?

Duk.
Thou art the first knaue, that ere mad'st a Duke.
First Proost, let me bayle these gentle three:
Sneake not away Sir, for the Fryer, and you,
Must haue a word anon: lay hold on him.

Luc.
This may proue worse then hanging.

Duk.
What you haue spoke, I pardon: sit you downe,
We'll borrow place of him; Sir, by your leaue:
Ha'st thou or word, or wit, or impudence,
That yet can doe thee office? If thou ha'st
Rely vpon it, till my tale be heard,
And hold no longer out.

Ang.
Oh, my dread Lord,
I should be guiltier then my guiltinesse,
To thinke I can be vndiscerneable,
When I perceiue your grace, like powre diuine,
Hath look'd vpon my passes. Then good Prince,
No longer Session hold upon my shame,
But let my Triall, be mine owne Confession:
Immediate sentence then, and sequent death,
Is all the grace I beg.

Duk.
Come hither Mariana,
Say: was't thou ere contracted to this woman?

Ang.
I was my Lord.

Duk.
Goe take her hence, and marry her instantly.
Doe you the office (Fryer) which consummate,
Returne him here againe: goe with him Prouost.

Exit.

Esc.
My Lord, I am more amaz'd at his dishonor,
Then at the strangesenesse of it.

Duk.
Come hither Isabell,
Your Frier is now your Prince: As I was then
Advartysing, and holy to your businessse,
(Not changing heart with habit) I am still,
Atturnied at your sueruice.

Isab.
Oh giue me pardon
That I, your vassaile, haue imploid, and pain'd
Your vnknowne Soueraigntie.

Duk.
You are pardon'd Isabell:
And now, deere Maide, be you as free to vs.
Your Brothers death I know sits at your heart:
And you may maruaile, why I obscur'd my selfe,
Labouring to saue his life: and would not rather
Make rash remonstrance of my hidden powre,
Then let him so be lost: oh most kinde Maid,
It was the swift celeritie of his death,
Which I did thinke, with slower foot came on,
That brain'd my purpose: but peace be with him,
That life is better life past fearing death,
Then that which liues to feare: make it your comfort,
So Measure for Measure.
So happy is your Brother.

Enter Angelo, Maria, Peter, Prouost.

Isab.
I doe my Lord.

Duk.
For this new-maried man, approaching here,
Whose salt imagination yet hath wrong'd
Your well defenced honor: you must pardon
For Mariana's sake: But as he adiudg'd your Brother,
Being criminall, in double violation
Of sacred Chastity, and of promise-breach,
Thereon dependant for your Brothers life,
The very mercy of the Law cries out
Most audible, eu'en from his proper tongue.
An Angelo for Claudio, death for death:
Haste still pays haste, and leisure, answers leisure;
Like doth quit like, and Measure still for Measure.
Then Angelo, thy fault's thus manifested;
Which though thou would'st deny, denies thee vantage.
We do condemn thee to the very Blocke
Where Claudio stoop'd to death, and with like haste.
Away with him.

Mar.
Oh my most gracious Lord,
I hope you will not mocke me with a husband?

Duk.
It is your husband mock't you with a husband,
Consenting to the safe-guard of your honor,
I thought your marriage fit: else Imputation,
For that he knew you, might reproach your life,
And choke your good to come: For his Possessions,
Although by confutation they are ours;
We do en-state, and widow you with all,
To buy you a better husband.

Mar.
Oh my deere Lord,
I craue no other, nor no better man.

Duke.
Neuer craue him, we are definitiue.

Mar.
Gentle my Liege.

Duke.
You doe but loose your labour.
Away with him to death: Now Sir, to you.

Mar.
Oh my good Lord, sweet Isabell, take my part,
Lend me your knees, and all my life to come,
I'll lend you all my life to doe you seruice.

Duke.
Against all sense you doe importune her,
Should she kneele downe, in mercie of this fact,
Her Brothers ghost, his paued bed would breake,
And take her hence in horror.

Mar.
Isabell.
Sweet Isabel, doe yet but kneele by me,
Hold vp your hands, say nothing: I'll speake all.
They say best men are moulded out of faults,
And for the most, become much more the better
For being a little bad: So may my husband.
Oh Isabel will you not lend a knee?
Duke.
He dies for Claudio's death.

Isab.
Most bounteous Sir.
Looke if it please you, on this man condemn'd,
As if my Brother liu'd: I partly thinke,
A due sinceritie govern'd his deedes,
Till he did looke on me: Since it is so,
Let him not die: my Brother had but Justice,
In that he did the thing for which he dide.
For Angelo, his Act did not ore-take his bad intent,
And must be buried but as an intent
That perish'd by the way: thoughts are no subiects
Intents, but meerely thoughts.

Mar.
Meerely my Lord.

Duk.
Your suite's vnprofitable: stand vp I say:
I haue bethought me of another fault.
Proovest, how came it Claudio was beheaded
At an vnusuall howre?

Pro.
It was commanded so.

Duke.
Had you a speciall warrant for the deed?

Pro.
No my good Lord: it was by priuate message.

Duk.
For which I doe discharge you of your office,
Giue vp your keyes.

Pro.
Pardon me, noble Lord,
I thought it was a fault, but knew it not,
Yet did repent me after more aduice,
For testimony whereof, one in the prison
That should by priuate order else haue dide,
I haue reseru'd aliue.

Duk.
What's he?

Pro.
His name is Barnardine.

Duke.
I would thou hadst done so by Claudio:
Goe fetch him hither, let me looke vpon him.

Esc.
I am sorry, one so learned, and so wise
As you, Lord Angelo, haue stil appear'd,
Should slip so grosselie, both in the heat of bloud
And lacke of temper'd judgement afterward.

Ang.
I am sorrie, that such sorrow I procure,
And so deepe sticks it in my penitent heart,
That I craue death more willingly then mercy,
'Tis my deseruing, and I doe entreat it.

Enter Barnardine and Prouost, Claudio, Julietta.

Duke.
Which is that Barnardine?

Pro.
This my Lord.

Duke.
There was a Friar told me of this man.
Sirha, thou art said to haue a stubborne soule
That apprehends no further then this world,
And squar'st thy life according: Thou'rt condemn'd,
But for those earthly faults, I quit them all,
And pray thee take this mercie to prouide
For better times to come: Frier advise him,
I leaue him to your hand. What muffeld fellow's that?

Pro.
This is another prisoner that I sau'd,
Who should haue di'd when Claudio lost his head,
As like almost to Claudio, as himselfe.

Duke.
If he be like your brother, for his sake
Is he pardon'd, and for your louelie sake
Giuie me your hand, and say you will be mine,
He is my brother too: But fitter time for that:
By this Lord Angelo perceiues he's safe,
Methinke I see a quickning in his eye:
Looke that you loue your wife: her worth, worth yours
I finde an apt remission in my selfe:
And yet heere's one in place I cannot pardon,
You sirha, that knew me for a ffoole, a Coward,
One all of Luxurie, an asse, a mad man:
Wherein haue I so deseru'd of you
That you extoll me thus?

Luc.
'Faith my Lord, I spoke it but according to the trick: if you will hang me for it you may: but I had ra ther it would please you, I might be whipt.

Duke.
Whipt first, sir, and hang'd after.
Proclaime it Prouost round about the Citie,
If any woman wrong'd by this lewd fellow
(As I haue heard him sweare himselfe there's one whom he begot with childe) let her appeare,
And he shall marry her: the nuptiall finish'd,
Let him be whipt and hang'd.

Luc.
I beseech your Highnesse doe not marry me to a Whore: your Highnesse said euuen now I made you a Duke, good my Lord do not recompence me, in making me a Cuckold.

Duk. Vpon

[Page 84]

Measure for Measure.

Duke.

Vpon mine honor thou shalt marrie her.
Thy slanders I forgive, and therewithall
Remit thy other forfeits: take him to prison,
And see our pleasure herein executed.

Luc.
Marrying a punke my Lord, is pressing to death,
Whipping and hanging.

Duke.
Slandering a Prince deserues it.
She Claudio that you wrong'd, looke you restore.
Ioy to you Mariana, loue her Angelo:
I haue confes'd her, and I know her vertue.
Thanks good friend, Escalus, for thy much goodnesse,
There's more behinde that is more gratulate.
Thanks Proutost for thy care, and secrecie,
We shall imploy thee in a worthier place.
Forgiue him Angelo, that brought you home
The head of Ragozine for Claudio's,
Th' offence pardons it selfe. Deere Isabell,
I haue a motion much imports your good,
Whereto if you'll a willing eare incline;
What's mine is yours, and what is yours is mine.
So bring vs to our Pallace, where wee'll show
What's yet behinde, that meete you all should know.
